

Cleary will try for mark

 What made the competition that frustrating was having missed the finals by less than a second.
 "If I missed the final by five seconds then I wouldn't feel so bad. But, the skin suit would have made the difference," he said.
 As a result of not having made the National Standard time, Cleary will have to take the back door in order to qualify for the national championships which will be held in two weeks in Thunder Bay. Cleary will have to travel to either Montreal or back to Delhi and match the national standard time there before a cycling official. Cleary said he will likely be making the trip to Montreal because the track there is better suited to matching the standard time. At Delhi Cleary would have to do better than five minutes, 25 seconds while at Montreal Cleary would have to better a mark of five minutes 10 seconds.

 "My confidence took a bruising, but I feel I can ride the standard time," Cleary said. "Montreal is the better track because it's hardwood and indoors so there's no wind. The track at Delhi is outdoors and is made up of loose asphalt."

 Cleary said in order to make the trip to Montreal, he will first have to come up with about $300. He figures that's how much it will cost for a weekend in an attempt to match the national standard.
 "This could be a pivotal point for me because if I make the National Standard then it becomes easier to get funds because people feel because you made the standard you've got national potential," Cleary said.
