Casselman's captures series

The Casselman Fuels AA Minor Novices have won their first playoff series with 6-2 and 8-3 wins over Brampton.

The boys were determined to put Brampton away early in the second game and rolled up a 7-0 lead in the first half of the game.

Ryan Taylor started it off with an end to end charge that lit the fire. Within 10 seconds Andy Kerslake had fed Gary McNiven in front of the net for the second goal. Tim Van Hinte scored on a full ice rush and shortly after Nathan Milne banked a shot into the net off the goal post.

Robert Walsh got the first of his three goals with a shot from the slot after taking a pass from Pete Mashinter. Early in the second period Pete and Andy assisted Robert again.

Gary McNiven got his second goal as his shot bounced and escaped the goalie's grasp.

In the third, Walsh was assisted by Chris Corney and as the pressure eased off Brampton managed to break through for a pair of goals.

The scoreboard read 3-3 but everyone in the rink knew the boys were saved by the officiating and that big kid in goal, from being beaten by their older opposition.

Milton Heights skiers take two of three events

Members of the Milton Heights Ski Club were kept busy Sunday, as three sections competed at separate race events in the area.

The Alpine Red group travelled to Horseshoe Valley where they competed against skiers from the host club.

Milton Heights won the overall title for the day with 110 points to Horseshoe Valley's 85.

Scott Robb of Burlington was first overall in the boys division, while Rob Dennison, also of Burlington, was second and Rene Latreille of Oakville was third.

For the girls, the top three finishers from Milton Heights were Diane Cheata of Milton, who was third overall; Lindsay Dennison of Burlington, who was fifth; and Louise Tennant of Campbellville, who was sixth.

The Alpine Blue group travelled to Chicopee in Kitchener, where they raced against Hamilton Chedoke, and came out on top 103 points to 63. The top three finishers in the boys division were Joey Kolosky of Oakville; Fraser Bonner of Burlington; and Derrick Glende of Milton.

In the girls' division, Heather Rollo of Burlington topped the Milton Heights skiers, followed by Heather Griffiths of Milton and Angela Fitzsimons of Georgetown.

The Milton Heights Alpine White crew was at Glen Eden Sunday to race against Hamilton Chedoke Gold. This time, it was Chedoke coming out on top over Milton Heights, by a score of 105 points to 84.

Drew Reeves of Oakville finished third overall in the boys' division, while Jason Sanstone of Burlington was fourth.

In girls' competition, Jenny Quinn of Burlington placed first overall; Stacey O'Neill, also of Burlington, was third and Judy Eaton of Acton was fourth.

Minor peewees lose nail biter

First round playoff action pitted Georgetown against nearby Chinguacousy in Minor peewee AA playoff action in a best two-out-of-three series which proved to be a nailbiter all the way.

Game one saw end-to-end action between two very closely matched teams resulting in a 1-0 loss for the local black and red squad.

Game two in Chinguacousy again was a close match with the score tied 2-2 at the end of regulation play. Overtime proved to be Georgetown's time to shine as they popped in three unanswered markers to tie up the series with an impressive 5-2 win.

Game three brought Chinguacousy back to Georgetown's home ice and this certainly helped the black and red as they never let up on Chinguacousy resulting in a 5-1 win and the best 2 out of three series to move on to meet Brampton.

In the first game against Brampton play was fast and rough and Brampton certainly showed how they have improved this past year and were victorious against Georgetown 6-3.

Game two in the series was played in Brampton and as in a lot of cases home ice helps. Brampton took charge and earned the right to advance with a 5-2 victory.

Two players who certainly kept Georgetown in the games are Marc St. Pierre and Tom Diardichuk, two super goalies who were called on numerous times to make one more save.

Goalscorers over the two series were Steve Wright (2), Greg Dobbin (4), Jeff Wright (5), Ken Kosziwka, Ryan Pells and Tim Presswood. Earning assists were Chris Barrow (2), Greg Dobbin (4), Steve Wright (6), Ryan Pells (4), Shawn Pearson (2), Jeff Wright, Ken Kosziwka, Tim Presswood, Kevin Patrick.

It was a hard fought series played by the whole team.
