HERITAGE NOTES

SKATING ON THE RIDEAU CANAL

Every winter an 8 km. long portion of the Rideau Canal in the heart of Ottawa is transformed into a skating rink - the longest in the world. Preparations begin in the fall as Parks Canada lowers the water to an appropriate level. Once the ice has reached a sufficient thickness, maintains the surface for the hundreds of thousands of people that are attracted annually.

For more information about the Rideau Canal visit Parks Canada, Ontario Region (H), 111 Water Street East, Cornwall, Ontario K6H 6S3.

Lead from length provides clues

By James Jacoby

It is certainly right to draw inferences from the opening lead. The next step is to draw inferences from what is not the opening lead.

The bidding was simple - one no-trump, which was raised to three no-trump. Since the defenders were playing standard leads, the four of hearts lead indicated only four cards in the suit, since declarer was looking at the two and three in dummy. East took the ace and returned the suit. Declarer won and played a club to dummy's jack. East won the king and returned his last heart. Declarer now played a second club, on which West discarded a spade. That left declarer with only eight tricks, unless the jack of diamonds happened to fall. But perhaps there were other possibilities.

It is a sound principle of defense against no-trump to lead your longest suit when you are leading blindly. Thus it was apparent that West did not have a longer suit than hearts unless he was embarking upon a flight of defender's fancy with his opening lead. Furthermore, he had shown up with only one club. Should it not then be obvious that West had started with four-card holdings in both spades and diamonds? The right play for declarer thus becomes equally obvious. He should play the king and queen of diamonds. When the jack does not show up, he should play West for that card by leading to dummy's A-10 and finessing. The reason? If West held only three diamonds, he would have held five cards in spades originally and would surely have selected that suit for his opening lead.
