

New looks in bridesmaid dressing

Traditional styles are what's "new" in bridesmaid dressing this year. The looks are distinctively feminine, and colors are soft and pretty.

Ruffles, puffs, lace and bows all lend excitement to simple bodices, while back details, such as deep V cuts, add interest.

According to Susan Thompson, dress buyer for Susie's, a national chain of women's apparel stores, there are "increasing trends" in tea lengths, which are cut just below the calf. "Of course, long to-the-floor lengths are still important," she reminds us.

Pink continues to reign in the No. 1 position on the color chart, while pale yellow, aqua, peach, blue and lavender also remain popular. In addition, some jewel tones, such as red, royal and teal, are being shown.

Lace gloves, pearl jewelry and fancy hair ornaments all add feminine touches.

According to Bill Wyatt, women's dress shoe buyer for Kinney Shoes, shoe styles "are starting to open up a little," with lots of cutouts and open toes. Lace, satin and pearl de soie are excellent choices for bridesmaids since the materials can easily be dyed to match the dress.

In fact, some shoe stores, such as Kinney, provide this service at no additional cost to the customer.

With all the dress and shoe styles being shown this year, one message rings clear: The look for bridesmaids is feminine and pretty.
