Kennedy (Can-Skate), Tina Van Hinte (Professionals), Johnathan Allen (Bill Smeaton trophy) and Carole Burnes (President's Cup). Back row Krysta McBride (Can-Skate), Allison Ternowa (most tests passed), Kelly Cotton (Senior I) and Julie Myers (Can-Fig). Missing is Danyla Cammick (Senior II), Kerry Inglis (Can-Skate G) and Ryan Kloosterman (Pre-School).

The Georgetown Figure Skating Club held its annual awards night at Joseph Gibbons School, and honored members who had completed various phases of their programs.

The Gayle Verhagen Award was won by Allison Ternowa, while Amy Longworth was second, and Danielle Demble was third.

The President's Cup was won by Carole Burnes, while Karri-Lee Karremans was second, and Domo Kovacic and Ellen-Louise Matthews tied for third.

The Bill Smeaton Award was won by Jonathan Allen, followed by Katie Cochran in second, and Carrie Morris third.

For Senior I skaters, Kelly Cotton was first, Heather Garrison was second and Heidi Nixdorf was third.

For Senior II skaters, Danyla Cammick was first, Jennifer Hodinott was second, and Kara-Lynn Palmer was third.

Julie Myers was the top skater in the Can Figure Skating program followed by Rosie Gimeno in second, and Denise Hannah third.

In the Can-Skate program, Kerry Inglis and Krystan McBride were tied amongst the girls for having earned the most badges. They were followed by Michelle Coens and Ashley DeJonge, who tied for second, and Holly DeJong, who was third.

For the boys in the Can-Skate program, Blaine Kennedy was tops on the list of those earning badges. He was followed by Axel DeJong who was second, and Thomas Arnold, Michael Fedchyshyn, and Sam Simmons, who all tied for third.

For Pre-school skaters, Ryan Kloosterman placed first, while Carlin DeJonge and Bryn Simmons tied for second, and Rebecca George and Reanna Schouten tied for third.

The winner of the Professionals' Award, which goes to the skater who they feel puts the most effort and devotion into their skating was Tina Van Hinte.

A number of skaters also completed their CanSkate Program for 1986-87. They include: Anne Bowman, Ashley DeJong, Michael Fedchyshyn, Rosie Gimeno, Denise Hannah, Kerry Inglis, Blaine Kennedy, Amber Lyons, Krystan McBride, Kathy McDonald, Kimberly Anne Thompson, Michelle Coens, Rachel Baker, Tanyia Little, Katie MacLean, Erin MacLean, Louise Haton, Katherine Hunt, and Axel DeJonge.

Run for Research is a fun cause

The team spirit is alive and well at Medtronic of Canada Ltd., as a larger than ever group of men and women prepare to participate in this year's 6th annual Run for Research, taking place on Sunday, May 24 at Sunnybrook Medical Centre.

Co-sponsors of the Run with Canadian Medical Laboratories, Medtronic has sent teams every year since the Run began six years ago.

Their efforts were rewarded last year when the women's team won the female corporate prize and the men's team placed second in their division.

"This year as an added incentive, we have created a training program which assists people in designing their own running regime," says Kathe Needham, Medtronic's Marketing Communications Manager. "That way runners can set a pace that is appropriate to their own needs, and twice a week we run together as a team which helps to build enthusiasm."

Crossing the finish line ahead of the pack is their ultimate goal, but Medtronic wants people to participate for the fun of it. Together with Canadian Medical Laboratories, Medtronic has created an award for the "Company with a heart" — a trophy that will be awarded to the corporate team that raises the most money for Sun-nybrook. "At Medtronic we believe that fit workers are happier workers," concludes Needham.

Any teams wishing to participate for a company or school in the Run for Research, call the Run Hotline at 490-4227 for entry details and sponsorship forms.
