

POWER dance

There's a dance coming up June 19 at the Acton Legion and everyone's invited. Held by the newly formed group POWER, Protect our Water and Environmental Resources, the dance will help it raise funds.

POWER is concerned about a proposal to develop a private landfill in the United Aggregates quarry in Acton.

Tickets for the dance are available from John Kirkwood at 833-0039, or Glenda Benton at 877-2101. There'll be an information booth set up at the dance to display POWER information. Tickets are $7.50 per person.

Belair meeting

A meeting is being arranged between Halton Region's lawyer and the principal officers of Chateau Belair.

The now defunct development company put up 13 homes on the north side of Wildwood Road and set up a trust fund to pay for water hook-ups by 12 residents on the south side of Wildwood.

That trust fund was dissolved in November 1985, Halton learned, when a Glen Williams resident wanting to hook up to Regional services was told he would have to pay for the hook-up.

The solicitor for the developer is arranging the meeting. It's hoped the meeting will resolve the dispute over water hook-up charges.

Regional solicitor Ken Anderson says a report will be prepared for Halton councillors after the meeting.

Seniors beaten

Not all grandmas are being pampered in their old age. Some are getting beat up or being neglected by their children.

A Regional committee has been looking at the abuse of "vulnerable adults". Vulnerable adults are defined as the developmentally handicapped, the psychiatrically disabled and the frail elderly.

Halton's Elderly Services Advisory Committee wants to make the community more aware of the types and signs of abuse and the circumstances which lead to abuse. It recommends a public awareness and education campaign.

As well, the committee wants counselling and assistance made available to the abused vulnerable adult and to the perpetrator.

This type of abuse is not going to be solved by putting the guilty parties in jail. There must be behavior modification, says the committee. It calls it an extremely sensitive issue, and notes intervention must be seen as "non-threatening"

In the committee's opinion, "poor or inappropriate intervention is riskier than no intervention at all."

Asthma camp

The Halton Lung Association is currently taking registrations for their annual day camp for children with asthma. In Georgetown, the day camp is scheduled for June 29 through July 17, excluding the July 1 holiday. Supervised camp activities include games, arts and crafts, swimming, and asthma-related breathing exercises, for children aged four to 14-years-old.

The camp is free of charge, subsidized by Christmas Seal donations, and asthmatic children and their siblings are welcome.

For more information, or to register, call 632-8199.
