Pioneer Days Lots to do lots to see come on down

By MARY-LIZ SHAW
Herald Staff

Sales, comedy theatre, contests and local bands are just some of the events scheduled for Pioneer Days on Main Street this weekend.

Organizer Margaret Vint is anticipating large crowds to come to the annual three-day event, originally introduced to bolster Georgetown's downtown core.

Ms. Vint noted some activities have proved so popular in the past, they will be back this year for an encore. One of those is Dr. Bandoll's Travelling Goodtime Show, a comedy troupe scheduled for Saturday.

Dr. Bandoll's special brand of humor is for children of all ages and the troupe encourages audience participation.

The doctor will be appearing with Picasso the Clown, a face-painter, Sergeant Paul Hall of the U.S. Marine Corps, Melodie the Musical Clown, and Gorgeous George the Gorilla.

The event officially opens at 7 p.m. Thursday with a parade by the Georgetown Girl's Pipe Band. On Friday evening The Pine Valley

Square Dancers will be performing and later, musical entertainment will be provided by Neil Cotton and the Racqueteers.

Among the activities scheduled for Saturday are the Pioneer Day Duck Draw, with a hand-crafted duck by Ruth Samson, a pancake breakfast sponsored by the Lions Club, the Women's Institutes' bake sale, and Pioneer Day awards to a senior citizen and a baby, sponsored by the Herald and Penniesworth.

Shoppers can also browse through the Cancer Society's craft sale or admire Jack Layton's model steam engines and rope-making skills.

On Saturday night a new local band Sound Investment will perform '60s and '70s rock and roll for street dances.

Throughout the weekend, all shops in the downtown core will participate in a giant sidewalk sale and a licensed patio garden will provide refreshments after noon every day. The Cellar Restaurant will hold a barbecue on Saturday and the Centennial Alumni Choir is also slated to give a performance.
