Allan Edmunds retired from Smith and Stone last week after 33 years with the company. For most of these years he worked as a set-up man in the plastics department. Assistant personnel manager Pam Reed (right) was part of the celebration. Mr. Edmunds, past president of the local UAW at Smith and Stone, is planning to go to Hawaii "when the snow flies," he said. (Herald photo)

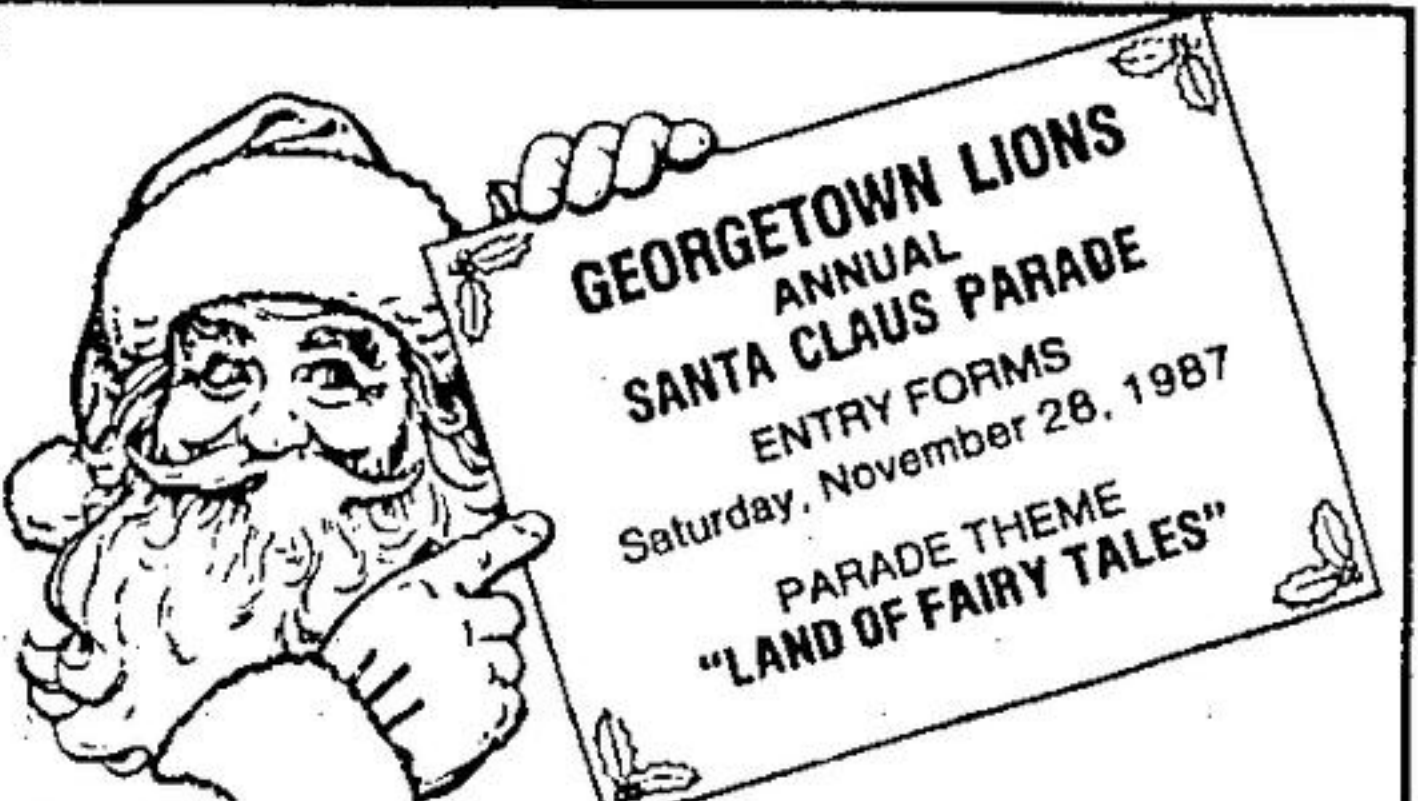

The Georgetown Y is offering a pretty good deal on an international raffle. That's the word from (from left) Jordan Scarlett, 2, Elizabeth Fogal, 3 and Jon Hooren, 4 who examined the raffle prizes Friday. The Y is hosting a multicultural celebration Oct. 16 and the 1st prize in a draw is a Peruvian Tapestry seen here along with second prize, a leather bag from Nicaragua. Tickets cost $1. For more information call 877-8163. (Herald photo)
