Rebel runners shoot for gold at OFSAA championship

A number of Georgetown District High School runners are in Toronto today (Saturday) to compete in the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations cross country meet at High Park.

Four teams from GDHS qualified for the OFSAA final after they finished in the top two schools in their respective divisions at the Golden Horseshoe Athletic Conference meet last week.

The Midget boys' team from GDHS remained undefeated in team competition as they took top honors at the GHAC meet. Meanwhile, the Junior and Senior teams from the school both placed second, to give GDHS the overall boys' championship title at the meet.

The Midget girls' team placed second, a mere two points behind Westvale of Hamilton. Sara Mulholland paced the Georgetown runners in the Midget girls' event with a third-place finish, followed by Kim Barr in fifth, Megan Lusby in sixth, and Kim Mizener in 16th. Jenny Ryan also ran in the Midget division, and was 25th. The top four runners from each school constitute the team.

Four GDHS runners placed in the top 10 in the Midget boys' event, to give them the team championship with a combined score of 23. Paul Lalonde was third, Kevin Tannas was fifth, Steve Holmes placed sixth, and Michael Kinnon was ninth. Kevin Eujen also ran for GDHS.

The Junior boys' team from Georgetown placed second, just one point behind the tough Westvale runners. Bob Donker placed second in the race, Martin Davidson was ninth, David Seida was 10th and Rich Bond completed the team total with a 16th place finish. Glen Mulder, also of GDHS, was 20th.

Dave Paul took top honors in the Senior boys' event, to lead the GDHS team to a second place finish, one point behind Milton District High School. Sean Cleary was third, Rick Lane was 14th, Paul Tufford was 16th, and Jeff Amato was 19th in the Senior division.

The Senior girls' team from GDHS was third overall, and Tara Bouskill, who finished eighth in the race, qualified as an individual alternate for OFSAA.

The close finishes for the Junior and Senior boys and the Midget girls in team competition at GHAC left many of the runners second-guessing themselves, according to coach Donna Metcalfe.

"A one-point loss, or even a two-point loss is difficult to take," Metcalfe says. "Everyone is thinking 'If I'd only passed one more runner. But I think it makes them a bit more determined, heading to OFSAA.'"

Kim Barr, who was fifth overall, and second on the Georgetown

Midget girls' team at GHAC, may be a questionable start for the OFSAA final. At GHAC, she was running on an injured foot. But Metcalfe says Barr has continued to train, in a way that won't aggravate the injury.

There is an added incentive for the runners at this year's OFSAA final. The top teams in the under-17-year-old divisions will be offered the chance to compete at an international meet in Luxembourg next March.

The OFSAA final is scheduled to get underway at High Park in Toronto at 10:30 a.m. this morning.

Hockey Rebels set to face CITY TV squad

The Georgetown District High School Rebels hockey team is taking part in a tournament this weekend, hosted by E.C. Drury High School in Milton.

In their opening game, GDHS doubled Milton District High School 4-2, earlier in the week.

The Rebels start their regular schedule Tues. Nov. 24. Home games are being played Tuesday afternoons at Alcott Arena.

In an exhibition match, the Georgetown squad will take on the City-TV Allstars on Sun., Nov. 15 at 5:30 p.m. at the Alcott Arena.

Proceeds from the game will help offset the cost of the Rebel team's trip to Lake Placid, where they will take part in a high school hockey tournament in early December.

Tickets to the game are $2 each, and are available from players from the GDHS team, or at the door.
