Willow trailer park residents fight to stay

Choral Society...

Halton Region voted for a review of the regional system of government, specifically looking at representation of members from various towns and cities.

Trailer park residents at Willow Park vow they will fight to stay at their site although the Credit Valley Conservation Authority wants to purchase the land because it is on a flood plain. Walt Elliot wins the Liberal nomination, defeating Bruce Hood by over 80 votes.

Dave Whiting is the PC candidate while Fern Wolf carries the NDP banner into the next election.

Thanks to a provincial grant, Acton will get its own ambulance service. The Ministry of Health approved a $150,000 grant.

People seem to be coping well with a railway strike which has affected some 700 people who use GO Trains each morning from the Georgetown station.

A Ballinacraig girl recently graduated from teacher's college was killed in a traffic accident on Highway 11 south of North Bay. Helen Schwarz was 25 years old.

SEPTEMBER

A man who fell asleep in his Academy Road, Acton residence was saved from a fire by neighbors. Glen Gordon, 43, was rescued by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kavanaugh.

The Georgetown Volunteer Ambulance Service celebrates its 30th anniversary with displays and an open house.

After initially having major problems with water and sewer servicing, the Roman Catholic Separate School Board will be able to go ahead with plans to construct a new high school called Bishop Reding. An active member of the arts council and business development committee, Barry Page, died of a heart attack while on a vacation in Puerto Plata.

Walt Elliot wins the provincial riding of Halton North, easily defeating rival candidates Dave Whiting (PC) and Fern Wolf (NDP).

A long-awaited traffic report about Mountainview Road predicts that there will be 4,300 extra cars using the roadway after the new Enterac subdivision is in place. The best way to divert traffic is to build an east-west roadway, the report indicates.

Councillor Pam Sheldon said she wants an apology from Mayor Russ Miller for a newspaper article in the Burlington Spectator. The Mayor referred to members of his council as pigs at the Acton Fall Fair. Marilyn Mitton is a world-wide vice-president of the YMCA as voted at the Phoenix, Arizona convention.

OCTOBER

Town council will help residents of Willow Park trailer park in Norval look for a new home. Council voted to help the 30 families search for a new site.
