$100,000 loan for new plant

The Ontario Development Corporation has approved a $100,000 incentive term loan for North Halton Tool and Die Ltd. of Limehouse. It was announced Feb. 5 by Walt Elliot, MPP for Halton North, and Industry, Trade and Technology Minister Monte Kwinter. "The company will shortly relocate to Acton, and the loan will be used to purchase additional production equipment for their new plant," Mr. Kwinter said. "It is estimated that this expansion will result in 16 new jobs within five years." North Halton Tool and Die Ltd. specializes in custom production of tooling and extrusion dies for the automotive market, particularly parts suppliers.

Seniors task force changes its mandate

The town's task force on seniors has switched its mandate and now it will concentrate strictly on providing seniors at Howard Wrigglesworth Public School. The task force was set up at the request of local senior Lew Ward late last year. Mr. Ward wants a separate seniors centre in Georgetown. The task force was originally supposed to study the feasibility of such a complex and the level of services needed in Georgetown. But the task force's mandate has now been changed to study what type of programs should be implemented for seniors at Wrigglesworth School. The town is still negotiating to lease the school off the Halton Board of Education. Once that agreement is reached, the town will sublet the school to the YMCA which will then rent out space to community services including a seniors wing. The Seniors Advisory Committee will also look after the initial organization of the seniors wing in the school.
