Reading goes straight to the dogs

By JANE McQUARRIE
Halton Hills Public Libraries
Mrs. Dunphy's Dog by Catharine O'Neill (Viking, 1987).
Here is a sure contender for the 1987 best illustrated Canadian picture book, written and illustrated by first time author Catharine O'Neill. Humor abounds in both text and pictures of this zany tale about a dog which learns to read. James, a pudgy hound, accompanies his owner, Mrs. Dunphy to the news stand every evening. Mrs. D. is an avid reader of sensationalist tabloids, which James in his doggy fashion digests nightly. Imagine James' astonishment when it dawns on him that he can actually understand the printed word!

He quickly advances from the National Enquirer to such enduring classics as Lassie Come Home, Peter Pan, and The Wizard of Oz. ("The people were nice but the dog was top-notch, bold as a lion and with a fine sense of humor, too.")

Catharine O'Neill's colorful quirky illustrations amplify the humorous text. The illustrator creates a cozy, homey somewhat cluttered atmosphere using soft warm colors. Her characters have distinctive personalities: Mrs. Dunphy is a dumpy, good-hearted eccentric single woman. James, her literate canine companion loves his owner and respects her intelligence. Their facial expressions, actions and surroundings are imaginatively and comically rendered.

Here is a book with charm and personality that will appeal to children and adults alike.

April 26 will be Senior's Day at the local Shopper's Drug Mart in Georgetown.

Celebrations will include spot prizes, refreshments, and a 15 per cent discount for seniors and their family members. The discount cannot be applied to tobacco, diapers and prescriptions.

In-store draws will feature a trip to Los Angeles to see the filming of Bea Arthur's smash series, The Golden Girls. Other draw prizes include three-piece Spode tea sets.

The first 200 seniors at participating Shopper's Drug Marts will receive a Discovery Shoppers Guide with over $25 worth of Life Brand coupons inside.
