

Easy care, casual furniture provides year-round pleasure

It's spring—time to clear the deck or patio of winter debris and spruce up for warm weather enjoyment.

Once you've toted out the barbecue, take a look at your furnishings.

If chair cushions are frayed and faded, or old metal table and chairs are scratched, dented or rusted, it may be time to invest in new casual furniture.

The range of choices is tremendous. You can find seating and dining groupings in a variety of materials and price ranges.

Before you buy, however, take stock of your own needs, and consider what type of furniture best suits your lifestyle.

If easy cleaning, durability, good value and versatility are important qualities on your "wish list," you'll probably find that high quality molded plastic furniture offers just what you need.

Look for a material that won't crack, peel or fade. Rubbermaid's line of Sundial™ casual furniture is made of tough Resinite™ material that will stand up to the elements, washes clean with a garden hose and never needs painting.

The line offers seating and dining groupings, plus cushions in coordinating colors that are also durable and easy to clean.

This brand of casual furniture can stay outdoors, but you may want to move it in with you when cold winds blow.

The stacking chairs come in contemporary colors and stack to save space. These chairs can also be coordinated with matching occasional tables.

If you have children, there is also a child's stacking chair in bright colors sized to seat comfortably a four to seven-year-old.

Get the most use out of your patio by being well-prepared.

Store barbecue utensils in a rain-proof storage box near the grill; keep glasses and ice bucket handy for impromptu entertaining.

Stock a supply of board games in another rain-proof storage box, so there's always an answer to that familiar summer refrain: "What do we do now, mom?"

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON... even with chairs. These by Rubbermaid go indoors or out, and come in a variety of colors. The child's chair is sized for kids four to seven. Each chair stacks to save space.

Social services listed locally

(NC)—Yellow Pages are usually associated with selling products. But if you are looking for a social service and you are not sure of the kind you need, looking under "Social Service Organizations" can be a revealing experience.

In every Yellow Pages section there is such a heading, but of course, there is a greater variety of services listed in the larger cities. In Windsor, for instance, the first agency listed is "A-A Alcoholics Anonymous." In Toronto it's "Abducted Childrens Rights of Canada," and there isn't a listing for A-A.

Just about every book has a Red Cross, and Canadian Cancer Society listing along with the Salvation Army, Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation and other major health and social service agencies well known and regarded in the country.
