Making a pitch

Eight-year-old twins Renee and Michael Kitchen are hoping to help the Georgetown Minor Baseball Association hit it big in the current fundraising drive to earn money for a new batting cage at the Fairgrounds and to offset ongoing GBA program costs. Local ball players are out in force selling "High Fives", a chocolate bar product endorsed by the Toronto Blue Jays for minor baseball fundraising projects in Ontario. Renee is seen here holding a package of High Fives in her mitt while Michael takes a few swings in anticipation of the new cage which should be ready some time in July. (Herald photo)
