

Outlook on Business

Movie buffs will see a pair of new faces when they head for Video Plus on Guelph Street to rent their favorite movies. Alison Schulze and Carla VanVegal opened the business June 1. Housewives in Glen Williams, the pair were looking for something to give them a break from their children. When the opportunity came up they grabbed it.

The arrangement works out well since the store does not open until 11 a.m., which gives their morning free, and each partner works one week on and one week off. Since taking over the business, the pair have categorized the movies by subjects and are getting more titles into the store. (Herald photo)

With an abracadabra Arlene and Doug Smith can fill the stationery needs of their customers from the shelves of Office Magic, located at 136 Guelph Street. The co-owners of the stationery store sell office supplies, cards, rubber stamps, business cards and wedding invitations. The couple took over the store the first week of April. They had moved from Timmins, where they had owned a decorating store, to Georgetown two years ago and had been looking for something less physically demanding than lugging decorating supplies around. They are really happy with their choice. (Herald photo)

Strawberry festival

Crawford Lake Indian Village and Conservation Centre is presenting a "Strawberry Festival" on Sunday, June 19 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Celebrate the strawberry season with family and friends on a wagon ride to the Escarpment Lookout or a tour of a prehistoric Indian Village. Highlights of this event include native games, organized by the Woodland Indian Cultural and Educational Centre from Brantford; demonstrations in leather, bead, jewelry, wood carving and silk screen making; an exhibit from the Joseph Brant Museum displaying artifacts from the Woodland Indian culture, and wildflower photographer, Rob Stimpson. A variety of strawberry treats will be available in the Conservation Centre.

Crawford Lake Indian Village is located on Guelph Line and Steeles Ave., five kilometres south of Hwy. 401. For further information, please call the Halton Region Conservation Authority at 336-1158 (weekdays) or Crawford Lake at 854-0234 (weekends).

Claudio Orticeilo (left) realized a dream when he opened Kitchen Pride, located at 119 Mill St. E. in Acton, April 20. Growing up as a butcher and having spent 25 years in the business working for a slaughter house, chain stores and a gourmet store, the new owner brings his experience to his frozen, boxed meat business. Kitchen Pride also carries a line of vegetables, sea foods and cheese. Mr. Orticeilo and helping friend Rob Wharton (right) prepare as much of the meat as possible on the premises and can fill special orders. His wife Kathy is the other half of the driving force behind the business.
