

Young Outlook

STORY TIME

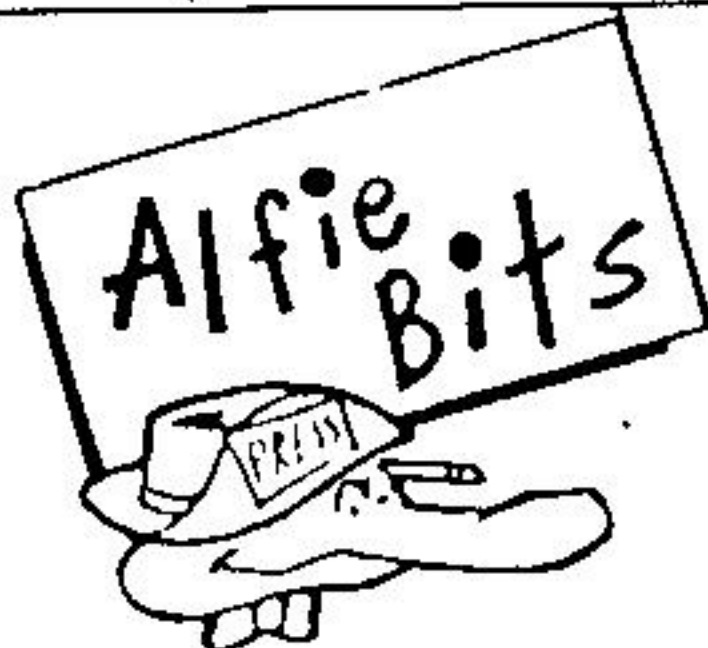

Alfie Alligator is thinking of a title for a story he has written about festivals. To find out what title Alfie is thinking of, unscramble the letters and using each letter only once, write the title of Alfie's story on the blanks.

Answer: Fun For All

BOOKS ABOUT FESTIVALS

Festivals For You to Celebrate by Susan Purdy. Grs. 4-6. Festivals of many countries are described here with ideas for group activities and crafts including costumes, decorations, foods, and games.

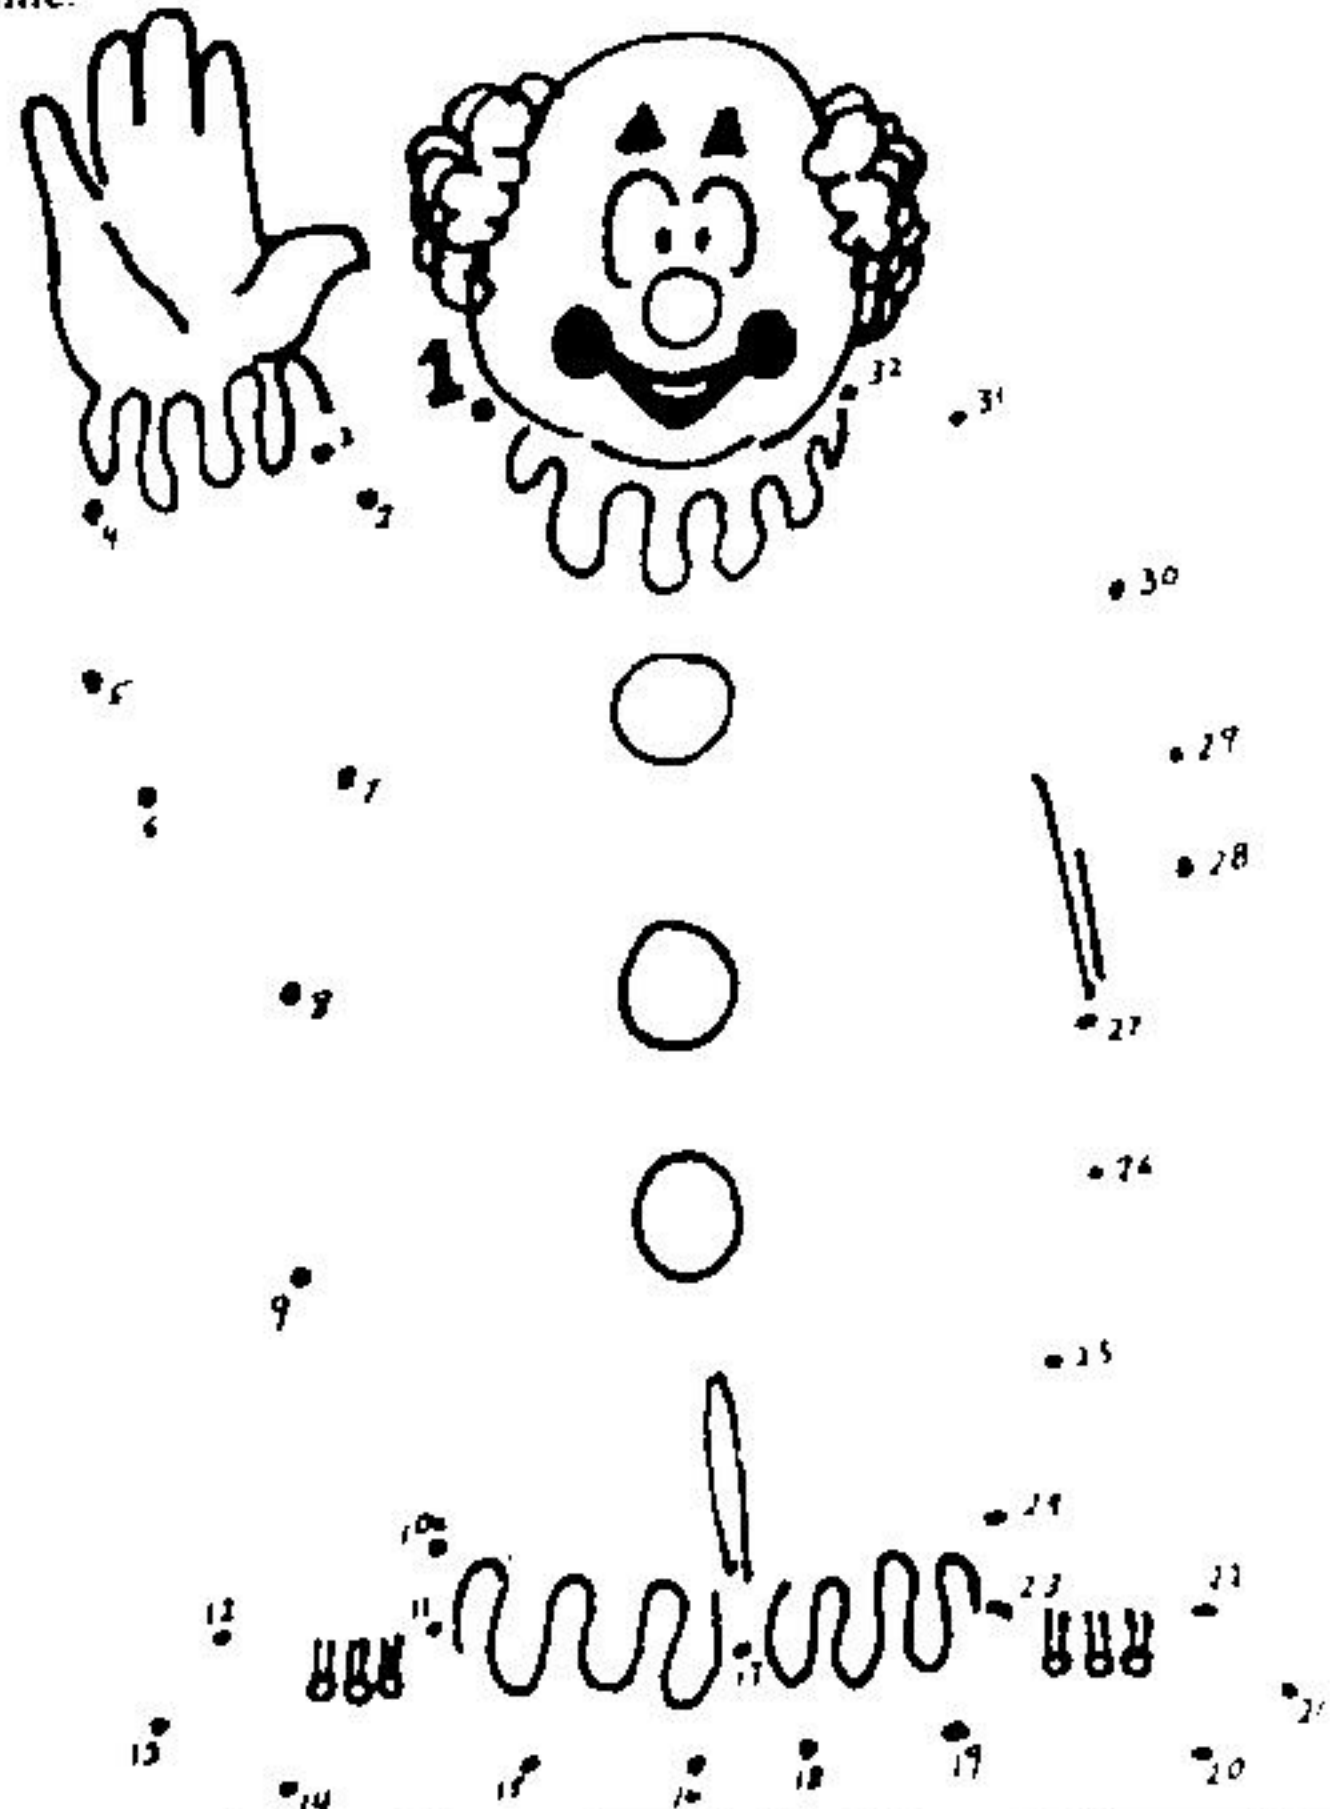

European Folk Festivals by Samuel Epstein. Grs. 4-6. Brief accounts of the celebrations of May Day, Whitsuntide, Midsummer, and harvest festivals. Includes festival sports.

Find out what festivals will be held in your area. There is always lots to see and do at these fun-filled outdoor activities.

CLASSIC CLOWN

Clowns help make festivals more exciting by providing entertainment for all. To complete this clown's funny costume, connect the dots and color his costume.

CRAFT CRAZE

Many festivals have a variety of interesting and beautiful crafts. To discover some of the crafts you might see, fill in the squares with the correct consonant and the diamonds with the correct vowel.

1. ott ry

2. b s et

3. je lry

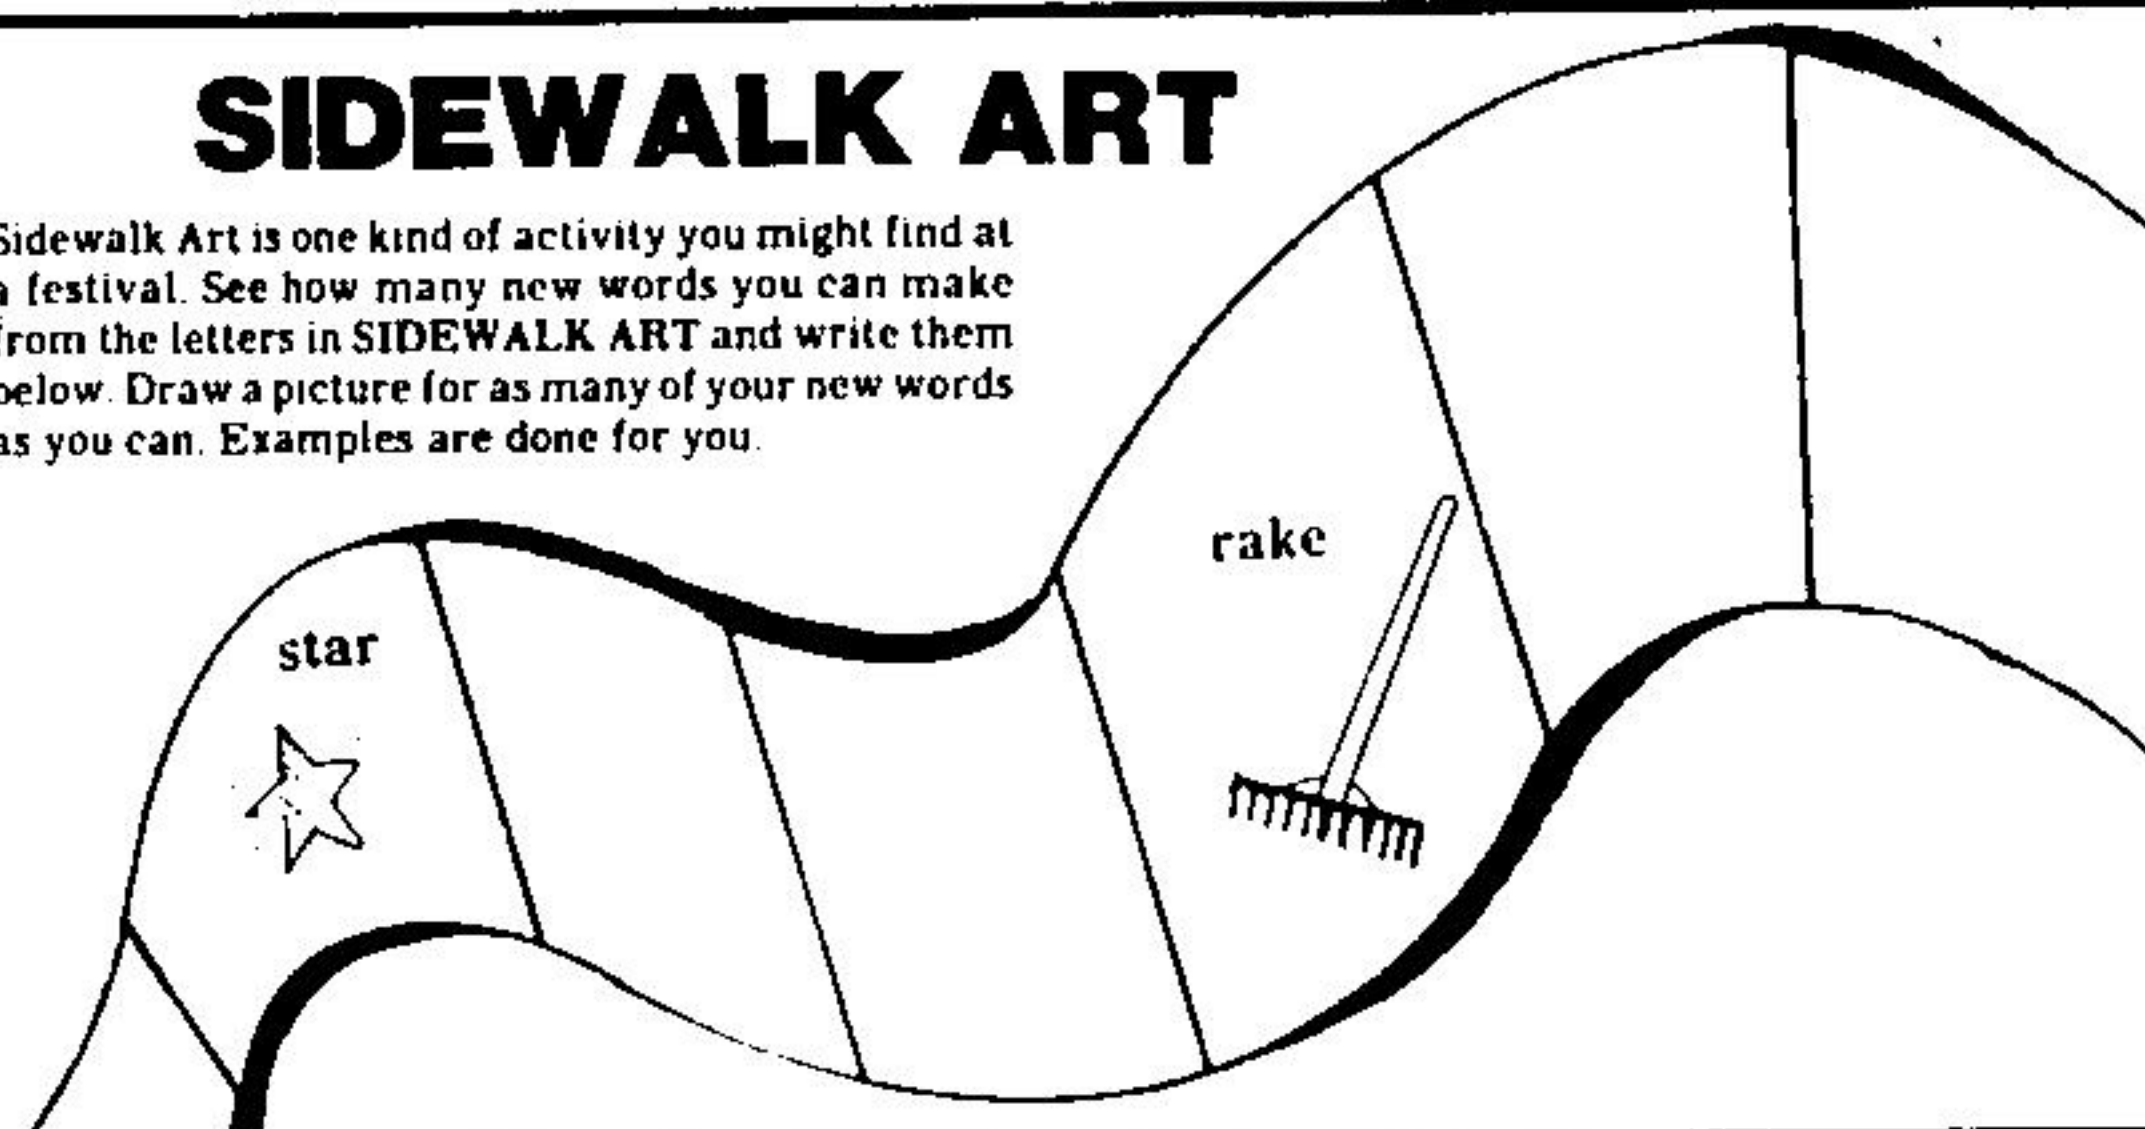

4. u lts

5. f r t re

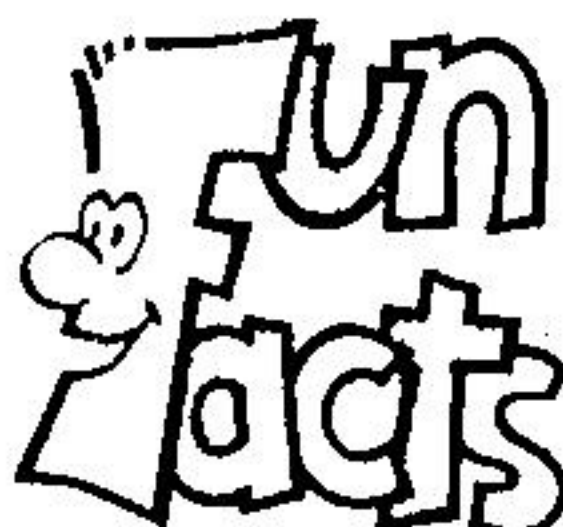

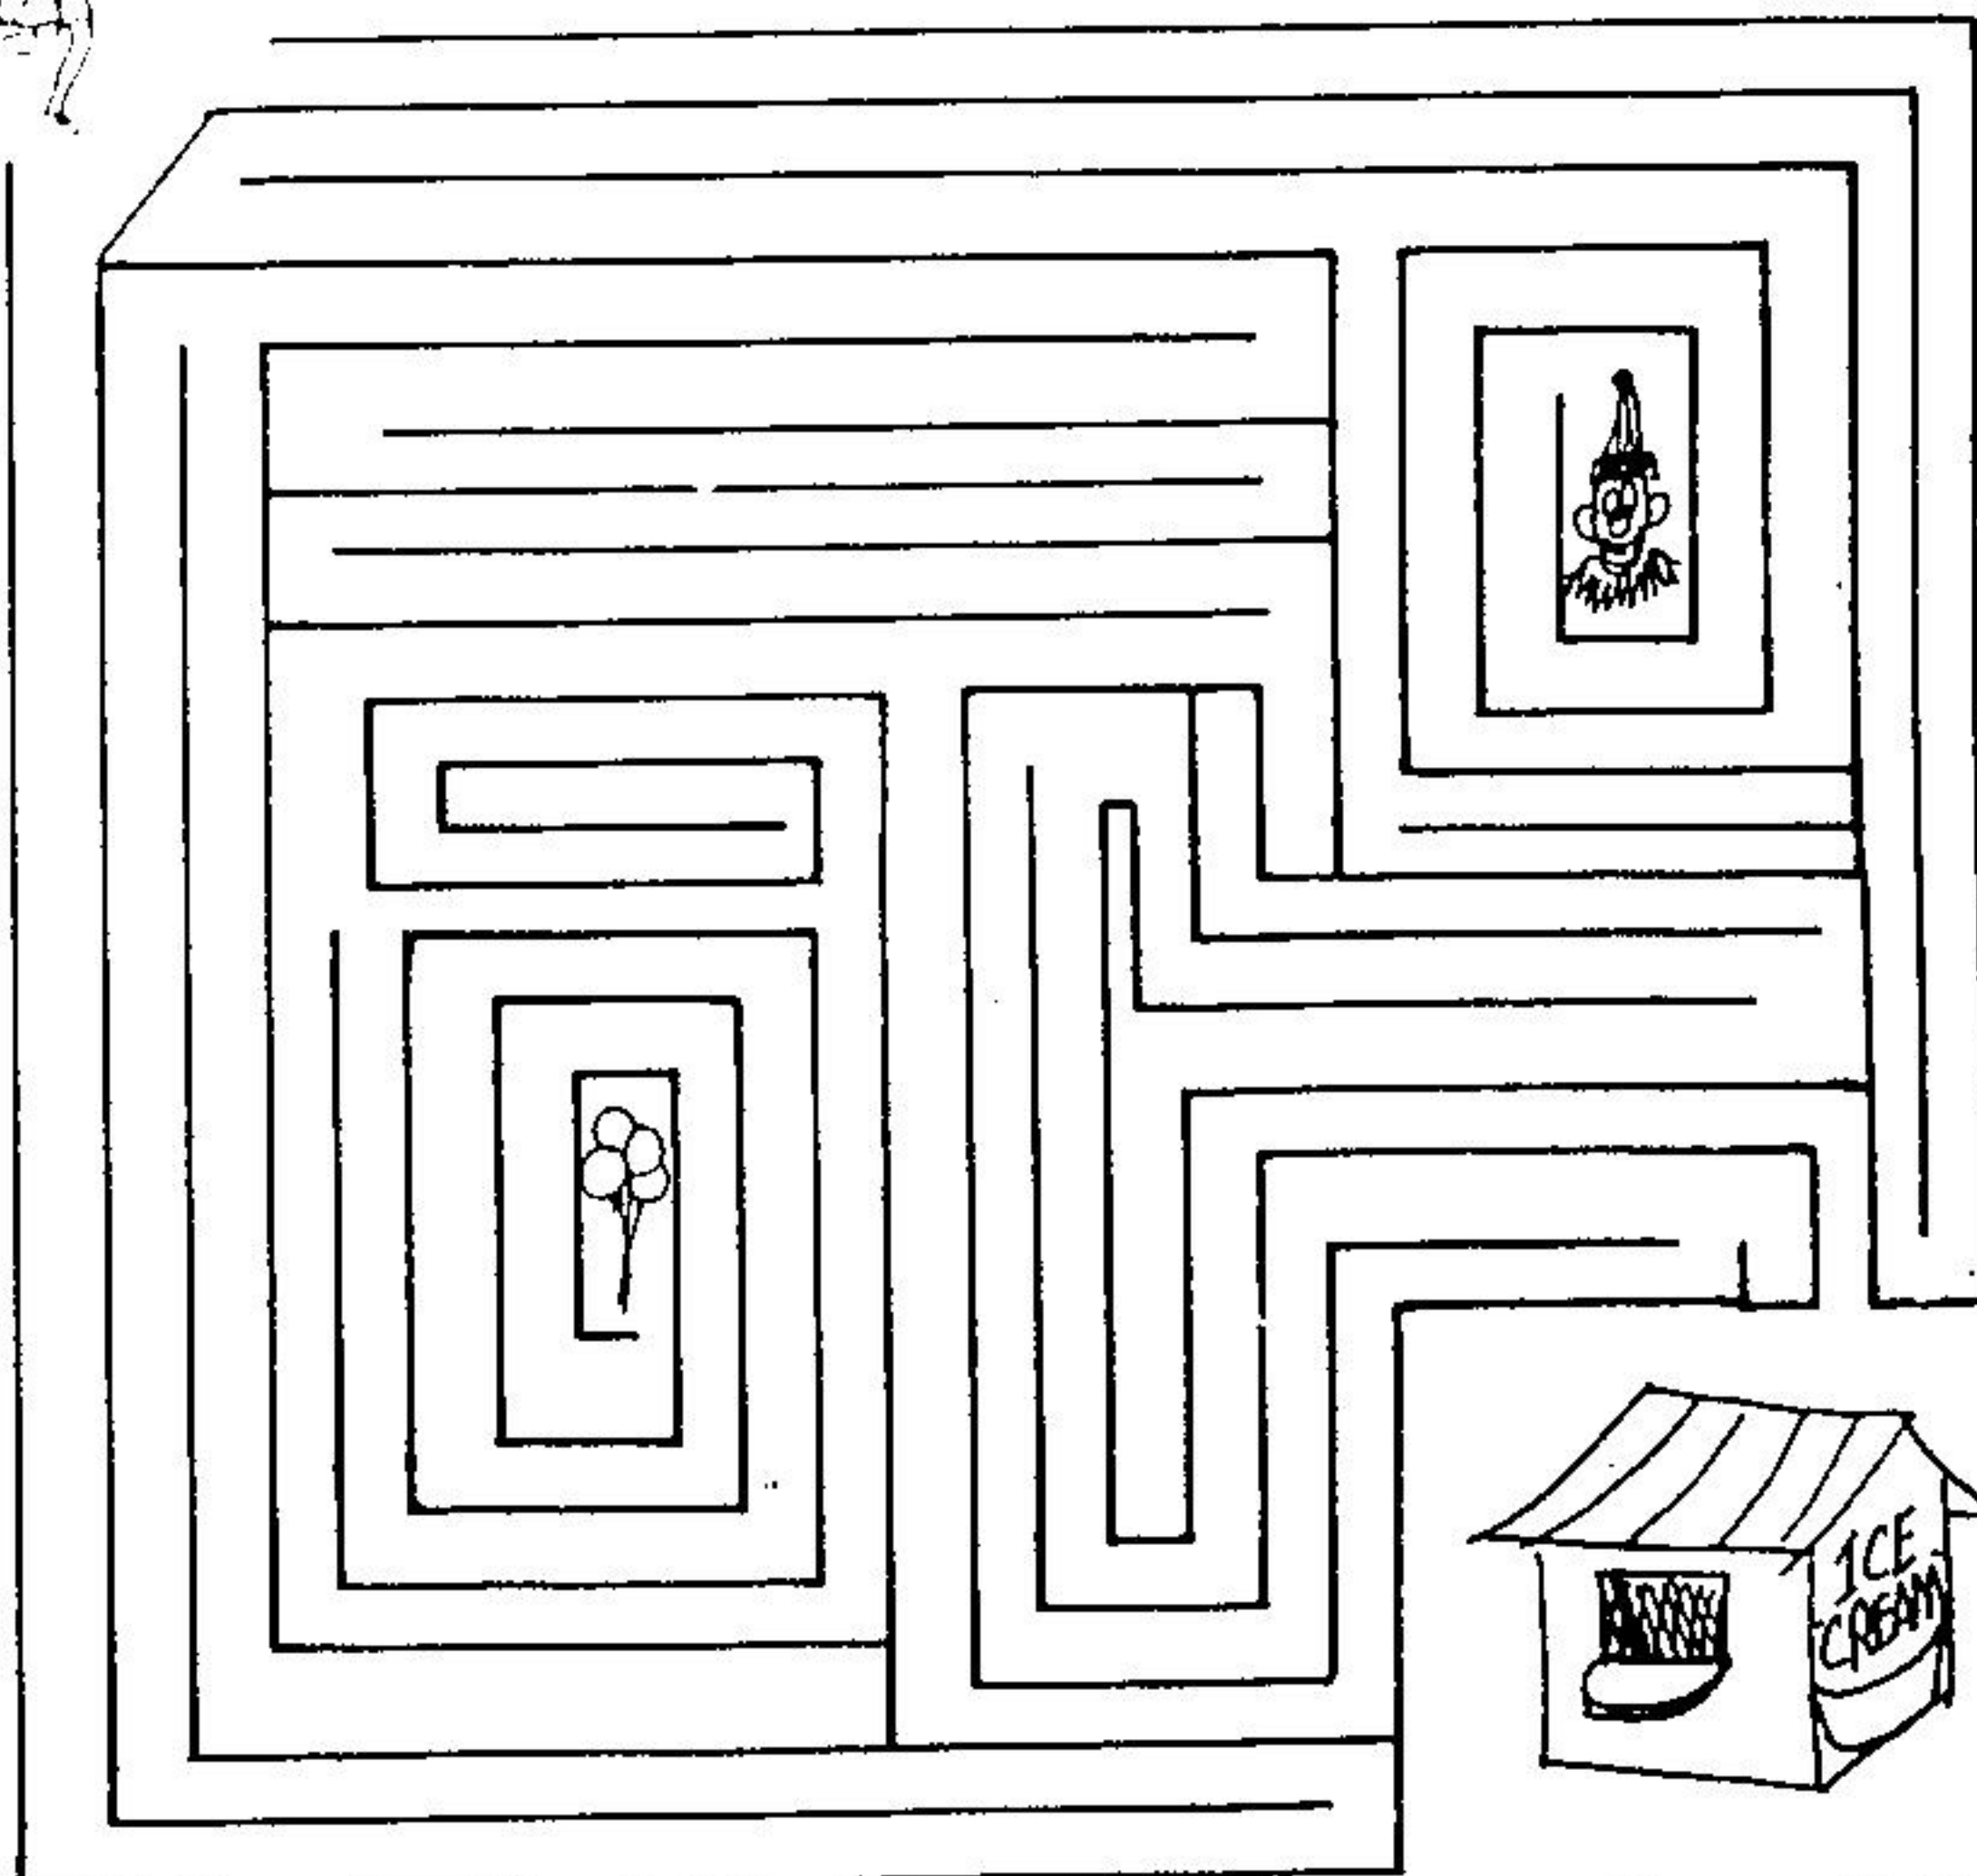

Answers: 1. pottery, 2. baskets, 3. jewelry, 4. quilts, 5. furniture

SIDEWALK ART

Sidewalk Art is one kind of activity you might find at a festival. See how many new words you can make from the letters in SIDEWALK ART and write them below. Draw a picture for as many of your new words as you can. Examples are done for you.

Lucy's family told her to meet them at the festival's ice cream stand in one hour and it's almost time for her to be there. Help Lucy find her way to the ice cream stand.

1. Some of the festivals celebrated during the week of June 20-25, 1988 include: the Mermaid Festival (Indiana),

Kaffe Fest (Minnesota), the Dahlonega Bluegrass Festival (Georgia), the Scandinavian Festival (North Dakota), the Bayou Lacombe Crab Festival (Louisiana), the Bavarian Folkfest (Wisconsin), and the Northwest Garlic Festival (Washington).

2. Food festivals are a typically American tribute to the local products.

Fred: What is a frog's favorite breakfast?

Freda: I don't know. What?

Fred: Pondcakes!

Ray: What three letters do people hate to write?

Fay: I, O, and U.