ACTON'S TANNERY

Capt. Abraham Nelles built the first tannery in Acton in 1842.

In 1819, two contracts for land were awarded for the survey of Esquesing. One contract was given to Timothy Street, the other to Captain Nelles. Capt. Nelles hired Charles Kennedy, who had been a clothier in Gainsborough but in May 1819 passed an examination in surveying. For completing the contract Capt. Nelles received 1400 acres of land. Charles was the brother of George Kenney after whom Georgetown is named.

Many thanks to Elains Bertrand, and John McDonald for his book "Halton Sketches" which was used as a reference.
