Triathlon series is expanding

The Royal LePage Triathlon Series has been expanded from five races last year to 10 events for the 1988 season, including the Canadian National Triathlon Championships on July 31. As many as 5,000 entries are expected to compete for $10,000 in prize money.

Triathlon is rated one of the fastest-growing sports in North America. Contestants participate in three different events concurrently - long-distance running, bicycling, and swimming.

Ozzie Jurock, President of Royal LePage Residential Real Estate Services, said that in addition to sponsoring the series, Royal LePage has added a total of $10,000 in prize money for the 1988 series. In addition, there is close to $30,000 in non-cash prizes like racing bicycles, exercise machines, and appliances.

"The sport has an excellent image," says Jurock, "and we're proud to be associated with it."

The male and female series champions will each receive $1,500. In addition, top finishers in the National Championship in July will share in $3,000 of prize money from Royal LePage.

In 1987, Augy Marmelo of Toronto won the men's championship and Donna Lori of Windsor was the top female.

Announcing the 1988 series, organizer Graham Fraser of TriSport Promotions, said that there are events for triathletes at all levels, from short course "sprints" to the "Ironman Quallfier" course in Orillia that features a 1.2 mile swim, a 56 mile bike, and a 13.1 mile run.

The top finishers in each event will receive points toward the series championship.

The Royal LePage Triathlon series began on May 14 with the Golden Horseshoe Byathlon in Stoney Creek. The series continues with triathlon events throughout Ontario almost every weekend, concluding with the Cedar Springs Byathlon in Burlington on September 25.

The most famous triathlon race is the Ironman, held annually in Hawaii. This long course event is Mike and Don Hurley kept it all in the family as they took top honors in the Father and Son tennis tournament on June 18 at the Alcott courts. The Hurleys defeated Bill Kent and his son Bill Jr. in the final match to earn the title.

Exchange announced

Ontario and China's Jiangsu province will trade coaches in the first phase of a new sports exchange announced recently by Ontario Minister of Tourism and Recreation Hugh P. O'Neil.

Jiangsu will send a total of three track and field and swimming coaches to Ontario high-performance sports centres for six months. During the same period, a volleyball coach and a badminton coach from Ontario will visit Jiangsu.

The second phase of the exchange will see Ontario send four sports scientists to Jiangsu to deliver lectures and conduct seminars, while Jiangsu will send a sports researcher to study in Ontario.

To complete the program, sports administrators will visit each others' province to study sports systems.

The Minister expressed enthusiasm for the agreement, signed recently by Jiangsu Director of Physical Culture and Sports Zhon Weigao and Ontario Deputy Minister of Tourism and Recreation Jim Keenan.

"By sharing resources and expertise, sports programs in both provinces become stronger," Mr. O'Neil said. "We found in our earlier exchange with Jiangsu that our different strengths complimented one another."

Parker leads Kentner's to one-goal victory

All six teams in the Senior Ball Hockey loop remain competitive as once again a single goal decides all three games.

Our first game saw the Kentner's defeat Dave's Service 6-5 on the strength of Don Parker (three goals, one assist) and George Coyle (two goals, three assists). Kentner's remaining playmakers were Dale Awrey (one goal), Ken Whitbread (two assists), Nick Boore (three assists) and Ken Thorne (one assist). Replacing for Dave's were Neil McDonald with two goals and one assist, Don Eady, Neil McLean and Brian Johnston with one goal each and assists to Brian Patterson (3), Gary Bovair (2), and single assists to Don Blewett and Marty Weaven.

In the next game, the Midas Top Guns took a 2-0 lead into the third period and then ran into penalty trouble late in the period. Choice Air scored late with the man advantage, but were unable to get the tying goal despite numerous chances. Midas goals were scored by Woody Fabian and Doug Baxter (short-handed) with set ups by Mark Maxwell, Peter Wells and Tony Kovacevic. Gord Williams, unassisted, replied for Choice Air.

Game three showed why the McGibbon Hawks remain undefeated as they scored midway in the third and then held on to defeat Pontiac Fleros 3-2. Once again Ian Syme led the way for the Hawks with a goal and an assist. Brian Beaumont and Larry Peterson (the winner) with helpers from Charlie Knocpfi, Bill Fournier, and Brian Hunziger rounded out the McGibbon scoring. Grant Bodnar (one goal, one assist), Chris Milne (one goal) and Ron Faulkner (one assist) were the Pontiac Fiero point getters.
