Heather Cunningham was among the local dancers who took part in the Highland Dancing competition at the Canadian National Exhibition on the weekend. Heather won two bronze medals for the open 15 and 16-year-old age group and added two fourth-place finishes.

Others taking part among local dancers were Lee McKeown, Erin Scudder, Tracy Little, and Jennifer Shields. Dancers from Brampton and area who train locally include Nicole and Erica Mason, Vikki Lynn Brain, and Jaclyn Stewart.

During the season, dancers participated in competitions as far away as Alma, Mich., Maxville, and Dutton. Closer to home, they were in competition at Coburg, Keswick, Cambridge, Barrie, and Fergus. Many of the dancers were rewarded for their efforts with medals and ribbons.

Joining her friends for a large part of the summer to enjoy the Highland dancing was Julie Hancock, formerly of Georgetown, but currently living in St. John's, Nfld. Julie won the over all trophy for her group at Alma.

The local dancers also took part in the Canadian Interprovincial Championships at Hamilton in July. While Sunday's appearances at the CNE marked one of their last outdoor competitions, the girls will be kicking up their heels again this weekend. Saturday they'll compete in the final event before school resumes when they travel to Dundurn Castle in Hamilton.

One of their first outdoor competitions took place June 11 at the Georgetown Highland Games. Several local dancers competed, including Heather Cunningham, Kristen MacKay, and Adrienne Houston, who won medals in the open and advanced categories.

Kristen MacKay also had a successful day at the CNE, winning a bronze medal for the Highland Fling in the Advanced Intermediate Group for ages 12 and under.

Erica Mason, another local dancer, placed fourth in her Sean Truibhas and added a fifth to her credits in the Highland Fling for Beginners, 12 and under.

Fairy Lake to provide water

Halton Region will soon be drawing water from Fairy Lake in Acton.

The Region has hired R.V. Anderson Associates to design and supervise construction of a water treatment plant, capable of drawing 500,000 gallons of water a day from Fairy Lake.

The plant will be situated in Prospect Park.

Halton has been waiting for permission from the Ministry of the Environment to draw water from the lake in the wake of objections from Canada Packers, owners of the Beardmore lands.

Canada Packers wants to preserve water levels in the lake to ensure good servicing to its lands which are scheduled to be redeveloped.

The firm was told to commence legal action by Aug. 2 in order to stop Halton from drawing the water.

Since no action was taken the MOE told the Region to proceed with the well, said Halton's commissioner of public works Robert Moore.
