

Help your used car fight rust

(NC)—The old saying, "They don't make them like they used to," is certainly true — especially when it refers to automobiles. Just about all cars today use what is called a unibody design which allows the entire car to stress and flex as the vehicle moves. This design creates many more seams which have a rate of corrosion nine times greater than that of a flat surface. Harsh weather doesn't help, either. Each winter over 11 million tons of salt are dumped on roads in the United States and Canada, according to a report by the Salt Institute. Besides being one of the most abundant and cheapest chemicals in the world, road salt is also one of the most corrosive. What can you do to make sure that your used car doesn't rust out before it wears out?

Ziebart — the expert in corrosion prevention — has introduced a revolutionary, low-cost rust protection system specifically designed for used cars.

"Used car owners want to protect and preserve their vehicles from corrosion just as much as new car owners do," says Dan W. Janssen, President of Ziebart Canada.

"This breakthrough extends the life of your car by protecting it from rust even if corrosion has already started."

Ziebart's Used Car Rust Protection Systems I to IV are designed to handle the unique problems faced by used car owners. They feature a specially-designed sealant — Formula Xtra — which incorporates the latest corrosion technology.

Passing over 26 demanding laboratory tests as well as field trials, Formula Xtra provides maximum corrosion protection and coverage on used cars.

"These four Systems give consumers price, processing, and performance options that cater to the needs of their particular car," Janssen says.

Low-cost Systems I and II are for used car owners who are mainly interested in short-term rust protection. The Systems cover 28-36 critical areas of a vehicle that are most susceptible to rust. Systems I and II are designed to be renewed annually at very affordable prices.

Systems III and IV offer consumers long-term, total protection for their used cars. Both of these Systems provide corrosion protection to 84 areas of the vehicle, but System IV also includes the application of Ziebart's exclusive Rust Eliminator prior to the sealant application process. Rust Eliminator for used cars extends the life of a car by protecting it from rust even if corrosion has already started. Ziebart warranties are available for Systems III and IV.

According to Janssen, Ziebart is offering a complete, no-charge rust inspection for all customers to determine each vehicle's specific rust protection needs.

"This inspection provides the most comprehensive corrosion status evaluation available," Janssen notes. "Each used car is in a different condition and our inspection will determine what is needed to preserve it."

Ziebart — the rust protection experts for nearly three decades — is international in size, with more than 600 locations in 35 countries. ZIEBART Service Centres are known as The Car Improvement Specialists, offering a wide range of products, services, and accessories for cars/trucks/vans that enhance their looks, extend their life, and increase their value.
