Ski trip to Quebec planned

Hello again. The "Absent-minded Columnist" has returned to fill that special void in your life. You know, the one where you feel like you're missing something really special - Me!

Anyhow, 'nuff said about that nonsense. Are you interested in going skiing at Mount St. Anne in Quebec this winter? If so, there is a group of GDHS pupils organizing this trip, slated for sometime in the new year. Contact either Greg Sholdice or Ken Duncan for further details.

This past Tuesday, the senior girls field hockey team suffered a heart-breaking loss to Oakville-Trafalgar by a score of 1-0.

Are you interested in trying your hand as a journalist? The infamous GDHS Press is seeking out ambitious young students who would like to give the world of high school journalism a spin. For anyone thinking about a future career in this field, the experience looks great on a resume.

Did you notice everyone had on their "Sunday Best" this past Monday? Well, don't worry - you didn't lose a day, it was just picture day at GDHS. Students and teachers alike put up with a multitude of disrupprofits.

Did I miss something here? The powers that be at GDHS first state that skateboards and ghetto blasters are not allowed on GDHS school property. Then, it seems not moments later the student populace are advised to keep such articles in their lockers? What gives?

Underaged smokers beware... You are wanted dead or alive. Yes, it's true. I myself, recently witnessed an underaged smoker get "busted" by a school official. So beware, you are hunted creatures.

As for the trip to the subterranean (rainforests of Silver Creek I promised you last week, it was cancelled on account of Hurricane Gilbert.

Speaking of Gilbert, there is a donation box in the front office, to help aid the victims of this disaster. So, if you happen to have any spare change lying around, now is truly the time to give at the office.

That's all folks. Until next week, "Don't worry. Be happy."

Next Friday marks the first dance of the year for GDHS. As usual, it will be from 7 - 11 p.m., with no smoking allowed in the school. Proceeds will go to Student Council who will help to subsidize many other events and activities through the
