Enrolment shows drop

Although the official count won't be in until Oct. 30, Halton Region high schools have noticed a drop in student enrolment.

The Halton Board of Education projected enrolment for September was 18,100 high school students, but the most recent figure puts student population in the Region at 17,922.

"It's safe to say enrolment is under," said Georgetown District High School principal Barb Singleton. GDHS had an expected enrolment of 1,579, but Sept. 30 results put the school at a 1,560 figure. And this is below the anticipated 1987 enrolment, which was 1,627, according to Board records.

To the west, Acton High School is stable at a 577 figure for 1988 enrolment. "There hasn't been any growth in Acton to have generated more enrolment," said principal Karel Sury, who said in early September that he expected enrolment to hold around the 580 mark.

But enrolment at the primary level is a healthy 25,552, close to the Board's anticipated figure of 25,033 students, according to an Aug. 19 newsletter.

"We're looking at the figures going up 100, maybe 150 students," said Jerry Jenkins, Director of Business Services for the Halton Board of Education.

Halton Hills' Board trustee for Acton, Arlene Bruce, said this year's high school enrolment figures were "the least accurate predictions for 1988."

However, final enrolment figures won't be released until an official count is taken Oct. 30 and sent to the Ministry of Education, said Mr. Jenkins.

Appointment for Laing

The Halton Board of Education has announced the appointment of Pauline Laing as Director of Education for the Durham Board of Education (Oshawa) effective Jan. 1, 1989.

Ms. Laing is currently the Halton Board's Superintendent of Curriculum Services. Her many talents will be missed in Halton.

Public Education will be well served in Durham with Ms. Laing's leadership, and the Halton board wishes her every success.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sharpe are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberly Merna to David Louis Edward, son of Sharon and Edward Prete. The couple will be married on Sept. 18, 1989 at St. Andrew's United Church in Georgetown.

Funding announced for Halton services

Barbara Sullivan, MPP for Halton Centre, has announced $557,460 in annual funding to expand three local programs: introduce a pre-school assessment program; and establish a new fund to serve children with social, emotional and behavior problems in Halton. Mrs. Sullivan made the announcement on behalf of John Sweeney, Ontario's Minister of Community and Social Services.

Three children's agencies in Halton will receive a total of $522,500 to expand their programs. Mrs. Sullivan said that the funding had been set aside by Mr. Sweeney's ministry in February. That fund was intended to support service proposals from local groups and organizations in Halton.

All proposals were reviewed in detail by the Halton Children's Mental Health Joint Committee, a body formed to study the proposals and make recommendations for services. The committee is comprised of representatives from the District Health Council and the Children's Services Co-ordinating Group.

"The proposals received from our local agencies reflected a great deal of thought and concern for the emotional and social well-being of area children and their families," said Mrs. Sullivan.

Taking into account the recommendations of the joint committee, the ministry reviewed the proposals and has approved three program expansions:

The Children's Assessment and Treatment Centre (C.A.T.C.) will receive $335,300 annually to expand its multi-disciplinary assessment and treatment services to children and their families in Oakville and the communities of Georgetown, Acton, Milton and the surrounding area (north Halton). C.A.T.C. presently offers service to Burlington families, which is subsidized with $485,794 in annual funding from the ministry.

Halton Sexual Abuse Program will receive $78,200 annually to consolidate its therapeutic group counselling services for victims and perpetrators of sexual abuse in the region. Sponsored by the Halton Child Abuse Council, this program is currently offered with $6,270 annual assistance from the ministry; and Woodview Children's Centre will receive $109,000 annually to expand its day treatment services to children and families in north Halton. Woodview currently provides day treatment programs for children and families in south Halton and residential services for the Halton region which is supported by $719,577 in annual funding from the ministry.

"The process used to review the proposals for children's services has reflected the needs of the local community," said Mrs. Sullivan. "I am pleased that the ministry is working in partnership with our local experts to identify needs and support solutions that expand successful programs to better meet the needs of children and families in Halton."

Mrs. Sullivan also said that Mr. Sweeney's ministry will provide additional funding to the Children's Assessment and Treatment Centre.

A one-time grant of $23,000 and $184,960 annually will be used to establish and operate a specialized assessment service for pre-school age children with consultation for staff from child care centres in Halton.

In addition, the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services will establish another fund for the development of child and family intervention services in Halton. Mrs. Sullivan said that the new $250,000 fund will be available to support other needed services for children experiencing social, emotional or behavioral problems.

"Family Asthma Program"

The Lung Association's "Family Asthma Program" helps families with asthmatic children to understand and cope with their condition.

games in the gym program. Programs run from 6:45 p.m. every Tuesday at Aldershot High School in Burlington; 7 p.m. every Friday, at White Oaks High School in Oakville; and 11 a.m. every Saturday, at Georgetown District High School, Halton Hills.

There is a $10 registration fee for this program which is subsidized through Christmas Seal Donations.
