

Santa Claus pays a visit to Georgetown

The weather for Saturday's parade was certainly bear-able.

Hundreds of people lined the parade route Saturday to see Santa and his reindeer pay a visit to Georgetown. And the jolly gent had a wave and a smile for all the young children who looked on eagerly.

These "angels on high" were interesting floats in the parade. Passengers aboard one of the many floats.

ET came home Saturday aboard the Brian's Auto Repairs of Milton float. The amiable alien is seen here with his buddy, Adam Crawford of Milton.

The imagination and effort that went into the many floats of Saturday's parade was rewarded with the approving applause of the hundreds who lined the parade route. And these youngsters were a big hit with the crowd.

Having a little help when you're trying to catch a glimpse of Santa is always nice.

An impressive team of horses pulled the float promoting Georgetown's Fall Fair, and it was most appropriate. And yes folks, that is board president Bob Malcolmson, with shovel in hand, tagging along behind to scoop up "parade remnants."

Arnold Fish of the Oakville Shrine Club and his palomino Triumph were a big hit with the kids. Triumph is the last colt sired by Golden Arbor's Highland Nugget, which sired more palomino champions in Canada than any other horse.
