

Outlook on Halton Hills

These local Leaders were honored recently for their efforts in the Scouting movement. Don and Theresa McLaughlin (standing) were presented with their Trainer Accreditation II award, and Sue Walton received her Training Accreditation I.

Leaders improve their skills

Fourteen participants from North Halton District Scouting and two from Milton District spent two days taking the Wood Badge Training Course Part I at the Jack Smythe Field Centre recently.

Part I training gives participants various learning experiences enabling them to gain knowledge and understanding of the scouting sections. The course helps develop the qualities necessary to become effective leaders in their programs.

Taking part in the course were Beaver Leaders Karen Degenais and Joanne Fell, both of 1st Acton; Debbie Fowler and Darrell Moore, of 3rd Acton; Susan Deeley of 5th Georgetown, and Susan Johnson of Milton. Cub Leaders included Walter Terry and Terry McKinlay, both of 4th Georgetown; Darren Mc-Callum of 1st Georgetown; Jan Kozler of 1st Glen Williams; Candy Gold of 1st Acton; and Jim Webb of Milton. Scout Leaders included Dale Thibideau of 1st Ashgrove; Brett Auger and Dave Livingstone, of 1st Limehouse; and Lorraine Hollywell of 3rd Acton.

All thoroughly enjoyed and recommended the course.

During the weekend, Mike Thomas, Halton Regional Training Co-ordinator from Burlington presented Don and Theresa McLaughlin of 3rd Acton both with Trainer Accreditation II, which recognizes a trainer's personal growth through training received. This presentation also recognized the trainer's abilities and skills to train other adults in Scouting.

Regional Commissioner John Ollivier presented Sue Walton of Acton with Trainer Accreditation I, both for taking training and training others.

Evelyn Owen was co-ordinator of the course, and Elaine Hannah was Course Leader.

Euchre results

NORVAL-Seven tables of euchre were in play at the Norval Community Centre, Nov. 17. Winners were Florie Alcott, Aileen Jackson, Phil Landry, and Russell Hussey. Winner for lone hands was Mae Tost, and the lucky draw was won by June Hussey. The lunch committee consisted of Eva Presswood, John Hunter, and June Hussey.

Good show

NORVAL-Members of the Huttonville Lions Club were pleased with the results of their weekend craft and antique show and sale. A total of 4,500 people enjoyed browsing, buying, and partaking of the excellent food. The lucky draw will be made and announced at the Community School meeting, Dec. 19.

'Home from the Hill' theme of special card

Oakville artist Joyce Kellock feels that the innocent activities of children remain constant in a rapidly changing world and in recent years, this has been the central theme of her work.

These sentiments are expressed in Ms. Kellock's work and Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA). Oakville is proud to feature a reproduction of her original oil "Home From the Hill" on this year's Christmas card.

Ms. Kellock is a native of Montreal where she studied with Arthur Lismer and Anne Savage at the Montreal Museum of Fine Art. She later attended Sir George Williams School of Art, (now a part of Concordia University), and returned there to teach for six years. She has continued her art education in workshops with Carl Schaefer, Gutorn Otto, John Bennett and others in Ontario.

Her paintings are in many public and private collections including that of ex-Governor General Michener, Alcan, Bank of Montreal, Oakville Galleries, Northern Telecom, Molson's and others. She is listed in "La peinture au Quebec depuis ses origines" by Guy Robert and other Quebec art publications. Ms. Kellock is represented in galleries in Oakville, Montreal and Quebec City. Some of her paintings are now available in reproductions.

The Christmas cards, full-color reproductions of "Home From the Hill" are a fundraising project of CMHA, Oakville. Cards and envelopes in packages of 10 cost $8. The cards are available from the CMHA at 341 Kerr St. (second floor) and from a number of Oakville merchants. Call 845-5044 for information.
