

Sensible advice for a safe holiday season

Planning a holiday party? After you decide on such important details as the guest list and what you will serve, take some time to think about something equally important: How will you keep your guests from driving after they have been drinking?

As the host, you have a responsibility to make sure that your guests do not drink and drive. This may not seem fair, and perhaps it is not. However, if a guest drinks at your party and then gets in an accident while driving, you can be held liable.

To prevent any of your guests from getting behind the wheel while intoxicated, it is very important that you remain sober throughout the night.

Be sure to have nonalcoholic beverages available. Don't mix strong drinks, and never try to force a drink on anyone.

Keep an eye on all your guests, especially those who you know will be driving. Stop serving alcoholic beverages at least an hour before the party's end.

If one of your guests does become intoxicated and wants to drive, do anything in your power to prevent him or her from doing so. Offer to call a cab or to get behind the wheel yourself. Or you can offer to let him or her spend the night at your home.

As a last resort, try to get possession of the car keys. Your guest may be angry at you, but he or she will probably be grateful to you the next morning.

You want your guests to have a good time at your party, of course, but you also want them to get safely home. Preventing your guests from drinking and driving is the single most important thing you can do to ensure their safety, and your peace of mind.

COLORING will never be the same with the Super Crayon Christmas Stocking!

Crayons shaped like stars and cars... Santa Claus coloring books... you can make every child's Christmas a memorable one when you stuff his or her stocking with exciting gifts from Random House, Inc. You don't have to spend a lot to have fun with quality books, puzzles, games and crayons for every youngster on your list.

Here are some tips on filling up Christmas stockings for under $10:

- Super Crayons: Coloring is only half the fun with three-dimensional, erasable crayons that double as toys or puzzles. Available in vibrant colors, the crayon shapes include: A menagerie of dinosaurs, characters from the Berenstain Bears books and Sesame Street, and race cars with motors that really work. Also available are crayon puzzles, with pieces that fit together to reveal an animal shape and, best of all, the Super Crayon Christmas Stocking, which contains crayons shaped like a star, a Christmas tree, a stocking and a Santa Claus! Suggested retail price: $2.95-$3.95 each.

- Card Games: Children love to play cards, and classics like Old Maid and Fish never go out of style, especially when updated with humorous new pictures from Random House, Inc.

Or, for something completely different, kids can sharpen their memories with the Real Mother Goose Card Game, in which players use their matching skills to recognize popular lines of verse. Suggested retail price: $1.95-$2.50 each.

- Learning Cards: During the Christmas break, young scholars will have fun with challenging flashcards like Schoolhouse Learning Cards. For a real challenge, they can try Schoolhouse Matchems™, the board game in which players use their flash card skills to have a lot of fun and learn their colors, numbers and letters. Suggested retail price: $1.99-$5.95.

- Christmas Coloring Books: perfect stocking stuffers! Suggested retail price: $3.99 each.
