Jump ball

It was the clash of the titans as the game's two highest scorers battled one-on-one during last Wednesday's girls basketball match between Centennial Chargers and McKenzie-Smith Mustangs at Centennial. In this play, Centennial's Heather Donker (34) puts the squeeze on Andrea Leeking as the Mustang player puts up a shot. Donker led Centennial to a big 42-16 win as she hooped 16 points and Leeking topped Mustang shooters with 10 points. (Outlook photo)

Chiefs fall in final

The Georgetown Domtar Packaging Minor Peeewe "AA" Chiefs travelled to Blenheim on Jan. 21-22 and participated in the 16th Annual Golden Acres Peeewe Tournament.

Georgetown's opponent in their first tournament game was the "AAA" club from Windsor. Windsor started quickly and built a 3-0 lead early in the second period. The Domtar Packaging squad began to assert themselves and were rewarded as Duane Erler scored a goal assisted by Jamie Stephenson and Brent Wilkinson. A late second period goal by Doug Sheppard from Stephen Onoprijenko and Jim Katsiliteris brought the Minor Peeewe to within one. An early third period lapse, during which time Windsor counted two goals, proved Georgetown's undoing as they were relegated to the consolation round in the 5-2 loss. Goalie John Waller and his teammates were certainly not outclassed in this contest.

The Minor Peeewe did, however, outclass their next opponent as they easily defeated Woodstock by a score of 6-0. Chad

Hughes earned the shutout in the Domtar Packaging net. Offensively, Sheppard counted one goal and two assists, Duke Bouskill earned three assists, Erler and Mark Aldridge had a goal and an assist, and Gavin Glaser was credited with two assists. Katsiliteris, Scott Wilson and Stephenson scored single goals.

The Minor Peeewe faced Niagara Falls in the consolation championship game. Domtar Packaging fell behind early, but Onoprijenko converted a fine Sheppard pass to even the score at one. Some loose play by Georgetown allowed Niagara Falls to take a 3-1 lead. Erler made a quick move around a Niagara Falls defenceman, and skated in alone and deked the helpless goalie to make the score 3-2. Stephen Yurichuk earned an assist on the play. A late second period, and early third period goal built the Niagara Falls lead to 5-2.

However, the Domtar Packaging side refused to quit. First Onoprijenko banged in the rebound of a Wilkinson shot from the point to close the score to 5-3. Erler was also credited with an assist on the play. With two minutes left Tyson Hackett went wide on the Niagara Falls defence, and sent a perfect goal mouth pass to Erler who counted his second goal of the game. Unfortunately time ran out on the Minor Peeewe in this 5-4 loss. Goaltender Waller made several fine saves throughout the contest.

While the Minor Peeewe did not claim a trophy, they were unanimous in their appreciation to the Blenheim community, which hosted an excellent tournament, and through their tradition of billeting visiting teams promoted the making of many new friendships.

Coaches Chris Milne, Dan Curtis and Wally Curtis will now point the Domtar Packaging team to their opening round of the Ontario playdowns against Oakville this week.

Adam up

Adam Bennett's stock continues to rise in the National Hockey League.

According to statistics from the NHL's Central Scouting Bureau released in the Toronto Star last Wednesday, the 17-year-old Georgetown native is now ranked fifth in North America among all draft-eligible players.

The CSB's list includes players from all three of Canada's major junior leagues, U.S. college and high school leagues and all other junior "A" loops on the continent who are eligible for the NHL entry draft next spring.

Bennett, currently toiling with the OHL's Sudbury Wolves, is ranked second in the Ontario circuit by the CSB behind only Scott Thornton, a centre with Belleville. Thornton is ranked second on the North American list.

Bennett was the first pick, second overall, of the Wolves in last summer's midget priority draft. The 6-foot-4, 208-pound rearguard has already been contacted by both the Vancouver Canucks and Washington Capitals.

Zone blue

Persistence finally paid off for the Pacemakers as they handed first-place Blue Zone only its third loss of the season in Georgetown Ladies Basketball League play at Centennial School on Jan. 18.

Anita Stankus hit for 12 points and Hermana Henderson rang in 10 as the second-place Pacemakers took a 10-point win, 43-33, over the Zone. The win left the Pacemakers just one game behind the Zone in current GBLB standings.

Judy Thompson was top scorer for the Blue Zone with 13 points and Sandy Brownridge had 10.

Meanwhile, the California Raisins have also been making recent upward moves in the local ladies hoop loop. Raisins topped the Steroids 54-43 to solidify their hold on third place. No scoring statistics were available for the game.

In a high-scoring game complete with a nailbiting finish, the Celtics outlasted the 76ers, 71-70.

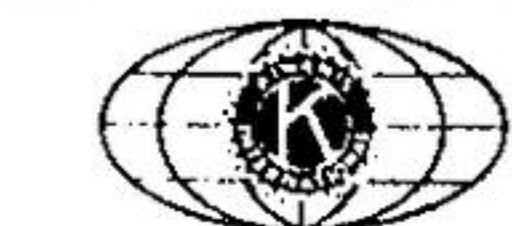

Chung Kim, of the Sixers, led all scorers with 34 points while Michelle Miehme was not far behind for the Celts with 27. Celtics also received 18 points from Boo Tufford with Corinne Buisman hooping the same amount for the 76ers.
