

Kidsummer in Milton

On Saturday, July 29, the Halton Region Museum will be staging the Kids' Pioneer Festival as part of Kidsummer '89. From 11 a.m. until 4 p.m., kids 10 years of age and younger and their families, will be admitted free into the Museum where they will participate in a variety of activities including: print-making and setting type from a 100 year old printing press; cooking scones and churning butter in the log cabin; spinning and weaving with wool; making and tasting ice cream; nail driving and cross-cut saw contests; games and races; a treasure hunt for information and prizes; and sitting in on a one-room school class.

Kids and their families are encouraged to dress up in "pioneer costume" and step back into the 1870s for an exciting, fun-filled day. No pre-registration required.

Kidsummer '89 is the third annual offering of a summer long free children's festival presented in the Metropolitan Toronto area by Toronto Life Magazine, CHFI FM 98 and CBC Toronto, and made possible with the generous support of Dofasco, Imperial Oil, Canada Post Corporation, Bell Canada, and Atari Canada.

Local sponsors for the Kids' Pioneer Festival at the Halton Region Museum include Field Fresh Farms, MacDonald's, Parkinsons Sawmill Eramosa, Sargent Farms, Schneider's Reliable Sweets, and Sifto Salt.

The Halton Region Museum is located in Kelso Conservation Area, five kilometres west of Milton on Regional Road 28. Ample parking is provided at the museum.

Visitors will be reimbursed for Kelso Conservation Area gate fee. Please have gate ticket validated at the museum's admission desk.

OUR LANGUAGE

by Jeffrey McQuain

Sitar refers to a guitarlike instrument of India. When playing or spelling the sitar, don't just stand there — first you should sit.

To cut up or chop roughly, hackle. If you have trouble remembering what this verb means, just hack off the last two letters of hackle.

Q. When actors are supposed to move "stage right," why do they go to the left? It's always confused me.
A. It's all a matter of your point of view. Stage right and stage left indicate directions from the viewpoint of someone onstage who is facing the audience. Right for the performer appears left for the audience, and the performer's left is the audience's right. (If you're still confused, try raising your right hand in front of a mirror.)
