Laser Energy

The University of California's Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory researchers have already been able to deliver over 10 times more green light laser energy onto a target than has

The 10-beam Nova laser system is expected to be operational in late 1984. It will be able to compress fusion fuel in a target to even higher densities, an important step toward demonstrating the feasibility of laser-driven fusion.

In Namibia's Etosha National Park, the world's largest corral holds an estimated 80,000 mammals within a 500-mile-long wire fence, National Geographic reports. While blocking some migration routes, it also helps prevent animals from being shot for straying into surrounding farms.
