

Royal Lynda

By KAY WILSON
Norval Correspondent

NORVAL-An era of Royalty surrounds 21-year-old Lynda Thompson of RR4 Georgetown.

Lynda was named the 1989-90 Ontario Dairy Princess on Tuesday evening, Aug. 29 at the C.N.E. Lynda represented Peel County as Dairy Princess, and competed with four other princesses, who had all won first in the preliminary competition. She then competed in the semi-finals, before qualifying for the finals.

Dairy princesses from 43 counties competed on three evenings and from these 10 winners in the semi-finals, five were chosen for the final competition. Princesses from the counties of Renfrew, Peel, Lennox and Addington, York and Prescott, gave prepared speeches on "Give the job to Milk." They also answered an impromptu question, on the Milk Marketing Industry, and each had to milk a cow. An extensive interview, with each princess was held earlier in the day.

This is Lynda's second consecutive year as Peel County Dairy Princess and she will be taking a year off from Guelph University in a course on World Development Studies.

Lynda will be working out of her home at RR4, to promote the Dairy Industry, for the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, and will be attending many events throughout the province over the next year.

Among her many prizes were a Guernsey Heifer calf, a Pontiac Grand AM car for a year, a silver tea service, a trip to England, a set of luggage, a clock, a Bulova watch, a $100 bill, and many more lovely prizes.

Lynda is the daughter of Roy and Heather Thompson of RR4 Georgetown. Her parents and brothers David and Alan operate a dairy farm, specializing in Holstein cattle. Lynda's sister Amy, and her husband Doug Miller operate the Miller Farm at Lucknow.

An economic and friendly alternative

Clarita and Salvador Salinas run the M & M Meat Store at 211 Guelph St. (Northview Centre) along with their 3 children (Clarissa - 18, Neil - 11, Alison - 8). Clarita says "M & M Meat Shops is an economical and friendly alternative to conventional food store shopping."

M & M Stores carry a wide variety of products. These include beef, pork, poultry, seafood, cheese, vegetables, desserts and many more specialty items.

Clarita has noticed since she opened 5 months ago, the friendliness of her customers in Georgetown. "I can help them plan menu's for a party, by offering some suggestions," she says.

Clarita feels she can relate to her customers as she is a working mother and she feels M & M Meats caters to working parents.

M & M is also involved in many fund raising events, including the Foundation for Ileitis and Colitis, where they raised $50,000 this summer. Also they sponsored Georgetown's boat race.

Clarita Salinas hopes to give her customers the best service and quality they deserve since she believes her customers are number one.

M & M Meat Shops is a corporation established in 1980 and at present has 56 stores in Ontario. It is Canada's largest specialty frozen food chain.
