

Speaking of writing

Canadian authors Jack Batten and Constance Beresford-Howe were in Georgetown Thursday to speak to the University Women's Club. Mr. Batten has written 18 books and he is the author of the Cramm mysteries. Ms. Beresford-Howe has written eight novels. About 40 per cent of the proceeds from books sold Thursday went towards the UWC's scholarship fund. (Herald photo)

Remember fallen comrades

Legion Lines

J. T. HAYES
Branch 120 PRO

Today, as we are in the middle of Remembrance Week, let us reflect on our memories of the comrades who have passed on in the past year. Their names freshly entered in the book of remembrance, will be a visible reminder of our loss. "We will remember them."

The newly admitted members with young children are reminded to check the list in the clubroom to be sure their children's names are on it. Also new additions to your family. On a similar subject, the post office are not the people to tell us you have moved, you are! The membership chairman has received a pile of "not known at this address" material. You lived there last year, tell us where you live now, please.

Man charged

Police laid charges of careless driving after a 33-year-old Acton man driving a 1983 Datsun pulled away in the car while a 14-year-old Acton girl was standing on a piece of rope trailing behind the vehicle outside Acton High School Oct. 29. The girl received minimal injuries.

Minimal injuries

Ambulance attendants rushed a 73-year-old Acton woman to Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital where she was treated for minimal injuries following a two-car collision on Guelph Street east of Sinclair Avenue in Georgetown the afternoon of Oct. 30. Police say the woman was a passenger in a 1985 Ford being driven eastbound when a 1986 Subaru pulling out of a private drive collided with the Ford. A 41-year-old Acton woman was driving the Ford and a 52-year-old Georgetown man was driving the Subaru. Both cars were demolished. Charges of not giving the right of way were laid following the incident.

Narcotics charges

Police laid charges of impaired driving and possession of narcotics following an incident in the Club 2000 parking lot in Norval early Sunday morning. A 23-year-old Georgetown man allegedly drove a vehicle into two other vehicles. The complainant, a 19-year-old man, held the accused until police arrived on the scene. Police found a substance suspected to be hashish after searching the Georgetown man. A Dec. 11 court date has been scheduled in connection with the incident.

Radio stolen

Police say someone stole a $600 hand-held portable radio from under the seat of a taxi cab at Guelph Street and Mountainview Road in Georgetown sometime Nov. 3. The taxi driver told police he suspects a passenger stole the radio.

Ornaments stolen

Halton Regional Police say someone stole the hood and trunk ornaments, with a value of $100, from a 1989 Volkswagen parked in the parking lot of the Georgetown Market Place on Guelph Street late last Saturday night.

$400 damage

Someone caused $400 damage to a 1986 Pontiac parked at the intersection of Main and Mill Street in Georgetown after using an unidentified object to smash out the vehicle's left tail light sometime last Saturday night.

$300 damage

Someone caused $300 damage to a CN truck parked in the area of Queen Street in Georgetown after using a pick axe to smash the windshield. Police found the axe stuck in the windshield.

Trespassing charge

Police laid a charge of trespassing following an incident at a Guelph Street business in Georgetown Monday night. The complainant had told the accused, an 18-year-old Georgetown man, to leave the premises Sunday and never return. But the man returned the next night and the complainant phoned the police.

overnight Nov. 2. The stolen property is valued at $200.

Shoplifting charge

A 20-year-old Acton woman was charged with shoplifting after a security person at the Olde Hide House in Acton saw a woman put a $32 bracelet in her pocket Nov. 8. A Dec. 11 court date has been scheduled in connection with the incident.

Ornament missing

Police say someone stole a $70 hood ornament from the hood of a Dodge Ram parked on Delrex Boulevard sometime between the evening of Nov. 5 and the next morning.

Windows smashed

Someone used what appeared to be a pick-axe to smash three windows, and puncture the hood and complete right side of a 1972 Ford Mustang parked in the area of Highway 25 and Sideroad 10 in Halton Hills sometime between Nov. 5 and the next day. The complainant told police she had left the car overnight because it had broken down Sunday night.

Charge laid

Police laid a charge of trespassing after a 40-year-old Toronto man was caught hunting in a field in the area of Highway 25 and Sideroad 10 in Halton Hills that was marked with a "no hunting without permission" sign.
