

Shops closed Sunday

$50 stolen

Last week, the stores planned to open if other retailers made the same announcement, because "the government hasn't been enforcing the Sunday law consistently in the province," Mr. Nigalis said.

Halton Region's legal department will take the major grocery chains and other repeat accused Sunday opening offenders to Ontario Supreme Court to attempt getting an injunction to stop the stores from opening.

Halton's legal commissioner Mark Meneray said January is the earliest Halton could get a Supreme Court date.

The battle between retailers and Halton Region extended to Hy and Zel's, the supermarket drug store that opened illegally in Oakville last Sunday. Halton Regional Police charged 31 stores Dec. 17 in Halton under the provincial Retail Business Holidays Act.

A jar containing $50 to be handed over to the Salvation Army for Christmas was stolen from the Beer Store on Guelph Street in Georgetown Wednesday.

Beer Store manager Glen Gordon said the jar, shaped like the shield of the Salvation Army, went missing sometime between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Mr. Gordon is urging anyone who knows the location of the jar containing the $50 to return it to the Beer Store or to Captain Budgell at the Acton Salvation Army.

Students at Park Public School performed 'The Snowflake Dance' for an appreciative audience of parents, students and teachers at the school's Christmas Social Evening, Tuesday night. The audience was also entertained with Christmas carols sung by the combined grades choir and directed by Mrs. Marilyn Bray. School principal Jack Peckitt, who is leaving to take up another position with the Halton Board of Education, received numerous gifts from the students, teachers and the Park School Parents Association.
