Chargers top rival Stingers

By COLIN GIBSON
Herald Sports Editor

Centennial Public School Chargers boys basketball team maintained their dominance in North Halton Public Schools league play Tuesday, by toppling cross-town rivals Stewarttown Stingers 39-25 in a game played in Stewarttown.

The taller Chargers squad dominated play throughout and were able to sweep the boards, both offensively and defensively, almost at will.

Centennial enjoyed a 23-13 halftime lead and only a brief Stewarttown offensive flurry in the third quarter prevented a total walkover by the Chargers.

The Chargers offence was paced by Jim Katsilieris who used the sky-hook with deadly accuracy in collecting 20 points.

Jay Johnson added 10 points, Graham Kennedy contributed four points, Toli Toris had three points and Stephen Onoprijenko hooped two points.

Hard-working Matt Brain carried the bulk of the Stewarttown attack with 12 points while Gavin Glaser was next on the Stingers scoring ladder with four points.

Questionable call sours series

By DAVE BEAVAN
Herald Special

In the two years I have been submitting articles reporting the results of the past week's hockey games for our group of boys, I have tried to follow some simple rules: try to make the article interesting as well as informative; always be positive about the efforts of the players and the coaching staff; and never be critical of the officiating.

A referee's job is a thankless one and not many of us would want to wear the stripes for even one game.

Having said that however, I feel I must describe an incident from last Sunday night's game between Georgetown and Streetsville which greatly affected the result, and depending on the timing could have an effect on Georgetown's opening series of Tri-County playoffs.

In the second period with Streetsville ahead 1-0, netminder Kevin Humeniski fell on a rebound in his crease area. Then, perhaps out of frustration with only being able to put one puck past Kevin in 4 1/2 periods a Streetsville forward jumped him from behind and actually punched him three times.

Obviously not impressed with the treatment Kevin was receiving, Curtis Hoogendam flattened the opposing forward from behind.

He fell either on his stick or on Kevin's and sustained a mild injury (he was back on the ice soon afterward).

The referee, who was at the face-off circle at the time signalled off-setting penalties.

It then became apparent that he was also giving goalie Kevin five minutes for "spearing" and subsequently a match penalty.

I have since spoken to as many spectators as I could, including those who were sitting above the goal and I have yet to find anyone who saw Kevin do anything other than take three punches for the team.

One minute he was playing brilliantly in the net and threatening to backstop Georgetown to its second upset win in a row, and then he was alone in the dressing room removing his equipment.

When the OMHA convenor received the referee's report of the game he added on an additional three game suspension.

Considering some of the flagrant fouls that both teams committed without penalty this seems like rather harsh treatment for a foul no one else saw except an official looking into a maze of players.

Scott Herbert was forced to come in cold to replace Kevin and while our boys stood around in shock Streetsville whipped in two quick goals.

Georgetown couldn't muster a comeback and were soundly beaten.

On Saturday night in the opening game of the best-of-three series our boys played a strong defensive game with Steven Smith, Michael Crawford, Shane Thompson, and Ricky Clark helping Kevin register a well earned shutout.

The only goal of the game came when Curtis Hoogendam blocked a shot at his blueline while killing a penalty. By the time the puck had bounced to the opposition blueline Curtis had caught up to it and he drilled a high shot to the top right corner.

In Monday night's rubber game Georgetown came out fired up and determined to beat Streetsville to advance to the next round.

Scott Herbert was in net and probably played his best game in two years.

He made one brilliant stop after another and when Georgetown scored the first goal our chances looked good.

Curtis Hoogendam was again the man of the hour as he broke in alone and scored near the end of the first period. The assists went to Ricky Clark and Andrew Beavan.

A minute later Brad Kouyoumjian skated in all alone but his drive was stopped and Brad Davidson couldn't convert the rebound.

We had other good chances but Streetsville kept coming and two late goals ended Georgetown's chances.

This was a very well played game and with this kind of team effort and the sensational goaltending of Kevin and Scott this team could still provide some surprises in the upcoming Tri-County playoffs.

Raiders host Petes

Regular season play in the Central Ontario Junior "B" Hockey League, West Division, is rapidly winding down and Georgetown Pontiac-Buick Raiders are hoping to get back on the winning track in preparation for post-season play.

Raiders took on Brampton Capitals Thursday evening in a game played in Brampton - at press time the score was not available.

Tonight, 7:30 p.m. at Gordon Alcott Memorial Arena, Raiders entertain Peterborough Junior Petes in the team's next-to-last home encounter of the 1989-90 regular season.

Raiders pay a return visit to Peterborough this coming Tuesday.

Brent Presswood appears a shoo-in to capture regular season Raider scoring honors as he enjoys a 10 point lead over Chris Lazarowff with only five games to play.
