

Couple wed

NORVAL-Glenda Feikema and Ravi Araniyasundaran were united in marriage on Saturday, Nov. 18, 1989 in the Second Christian Reform Church in Brampton. Rev. Peter Nicolai officiated. Mr. William Hoekstra was the organist.

Glenda is the daughter of Sid and Hillie Feikema of RRI Norval, and Ravi is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Araniyasundaran of Toronto.

The bride looked lovely in white satin, trimmed with lace and embroidered with sequins and pearls, with a matching shoulder length veil. A bouquet of mauve roses and baby's breath completed her costume.

Maid of honor was Raji Araniyasundaran, sister of the groom. Marilyn Feikema and Heather Feikema, sisters of the bride, and Leanne Nierlich and Susie Freeman, friends of the bridal couple, were bridesmaids. The attendants wore mauve satin dresses and carried bouquets of Birds of Paradise, mauve iris and baby's breath.

The groomsmen were Martin Tallan, and ushers were Jim Lynn, Wade Schaefer, Dave Hicken, and Scott Sneddon, friends of the groom. All wore black tuxedos.

Following the wedding ceremony, guests were received in the church hall, and enjoyed refreshments prior to the dinner reception at the Chris Gibson Centre.

The bridal couple enjoyed a honeymoon to Curacao, and now reside in Toronto.

Prior to the wedding, the couple were honored with several miscellaneous showers.

Halton must act fast if it wants science centre

The Region will have to act fast to ensure the proposed $63-million Great Lakes Science Centre is built in Halton or it will be built somewhere else, said Regional Chairman Peter Pomeroy after members of the Region's planning and public works committee heard a staff presentation on the centre last Wednesday.

If construction went ahead, which wouldn't happen for five to 10 years, said Chairman Pomeroy, it would be built at the south end of the Burlington waterfront.

The centre "is a good idea because it addresses the whole issue of the environment," said the chairman. As Regional chairman it will be Mr. Pomeroy's job to generate support for the idea and participate in the selection of a board of directors. The board would consist of members from both the public and private sectors, and the scientific community.

The centre would act as a focal point for research into environmental issues in general and water quality issues particularly around the Great Lakes, Regional planner Dave McCleary told committee members.

The centre would also provide the public with an opportunity to learn about the various types of environmental research being conducted by the scientific community, he said.

Currently a gap exists between the two groups, Mr. McCleary told councillors.

The centre is being called international in scope. A report resulting from a Regional staff study done last year on the idea of a centre, says "the Great Lakes is of global interest and the Great Lakes Centre would attract international attention because of its specific circumstance with global implications and significance."

The report proposes the Region would pay 4 per cent or just over $2.5 million of the centre's $63 million construction cost. The remainder would be split between the federal and provincial governments, the private sector and individuals.

If the Greater Toronto Area "ever files," Chairman Pomeroy said, the portion of money it would collect from waste disposal could help finance some of the centre's research projects.

The Region has already paid $42,000 of the $100,000 needed for the study on the idea of the centre. But $200,000 to $275,000 is currently needed in seed money to keep the idea alive, said Mr. McCleary. And he suggested the money is needed relatively soon so the Region can "ride the crest of public and government interest in the environment."

Mr. McCleary said it has yet to be determined who would provide the money. But Regional staff plans to make a presentation next month before the Royal Commission on the Future of the Toronto Waterfront, he said.

Parade will wind through Glen Williams

The Glen Williams Canada Day parade is set for Sunday, July 1, 1990.

The parade will commence at the McMaster parking lot across from Preston's store at approximately noon and wind through the hamlet ending at United Church on Main Street in the Glen.

Town councillors gave their approval of the parade at Monday night's general committee meeting on the condition that Halton Regional Police do the same. Police will be needed to escort the parade and to provide crowd control at the intersections of Confederation Street and Wildwood Road, and Main Street at Confederation Street.

Access for emergency vehicles will have to be available at all times and participants will be required to obey all traffic rules and regulations.

YOUR 1989 INCOME TAX RETURN

WHERE CAN I GO FOR HELP WITH MY TAX RETURN?

At tax time, many people have questions about how to complete their return and what information slips to include. The first place to look for answers is the General Tax Guide that comes with your return. It gives you step-by-step instructions, and helpful tax tips. But if you still have questions, Revenue Canada offers a variety of services to help you.

expenses guide, a guide for pensions and one for new Canadians, to name a few. Check the list in your General Guide. If there's one you need, contact your District Taxation Office or call the special "request for forms" number listed there.

PEOPLE WITH QUESTIONS

WHY SHOULD I FILL OUT THE GREEN FORM?

The proposed Goods & Services Tax, now before Parliament, has two main objectives: to make Canada more competitive and to improve the fairness of the tax system for all Canadians. The plan includes a new credit to offset part or all of the tax for lower or modest income households. To find out if you qualify, fill out the green form that comes with your 1989 tax package. Even if you don't have to pay income tax, it's important that you send in the green form. If you qualify for the Goods & Services Tax Credit, you could receive credit cheques every three months, starting this December 1990.

WHAT KIND OF SERVICES ARE AVAILABLE?

Revenue Canada offers phone enquiry services with extended hours during the peak tax return weeks. Check the back pages in your General Guide for numbers and hours in your region. For people who require special assistance, there's a program in which volunteers, trained by Revenue Canada personnel, help those who can't leave their home. There's a special toll-free number listed in the General Guide for people with hearing disabilities, using a Telephone Device for the Deaf, and there are audio and large print guides for those who require them.
