

Service!

In 1928, William Bradley added a new facet to his mail order business, when he took on the packaging of seeds and their distribution through a mail order service. To paraphrase a saying, "from a small seed, great things can grow", and today Dominion Seed House has risen to take its place among the premier seed houses in Canada. Like the robin, the arrival of the seed catalogue each year is a main harbinger of Spring. For years, people have been relying on Dominion for their gardening needs, as they enjoyed the luxury of ordering through the seed house's impressive catalogue.

A big change in the operation was the implementation of a retail outlet, the Country Garden Centre. A popular attraction to the Halton Hills area, the Country Garden Centre allows gardeners to browse and purchase directly from the Seed House and enjoy a wide variety of products that are available through mail order service. Other lawn/garden products, including a large selection of box plants, are also available at the Country Garden Centre. Dominion Seed House has forged ahead and kept abreast of the times, always looking for the latest in gardening products to attract new customers.
