Optimist Bicycle Rodeo set for Acton Saturday

The narrow streets of downtown Acton should send local bicyclists to the sidewalk walking their bikes along, Acton Village Constable Bill Riddlesaid.

"I strongly recommend, especially for children on a bicycle, to walk it on the sidewalk," he said. The reason for this is because of the narrow road that runs through Acton, he said.

Const. Riddle issued the warning before today's Optimist Bicycle Rodeo, to be staged at Prospect Park.

The Optimists have arranged to have the Halton Regional Police force issue licences and register bicycles free for children under 16. The Optimists have "picked up the tab," Const. Riddle said.

At the present time, all bicycle licences are sold in Georgetown, he noted.

Registering the bike with the police also helps prevent crime. If the bike is registered and "if the bike is stolen, we'll have the information on hand," Const. Riddle said.

Quite often the owner of a recovered bike does not have its serial number. If the police have not got the number either, it is tough for the owner to identify it. People don't want to keep coming to the station to see if anymore bikes have been recovered, he said. If the police know the bicycles serial number they will find the owner quickly and call them. "We don't want to store them," he said.

Up until June 1, bicycle riders will receive warnings about riding on the sidewalks, Const. Riddle said. After June 1, if a bicyclist is caught on the sidewalks, he or she will be ticketed, Const. Riddle added.

Bicycling on the sidewalks creates a hazard for people coming out of stores, he said. "Many seniors using the sidewalks could be in danger (from bicyclists)," Const. Riddle said. But its not just bicyclists Const. Riddle will be keeping a careful eye on.

"Drivers may be charged for opening their doors without checking traffic," Const. Riddle said. There is always a concern among bicyclists about people swinging open their car doors without checking for bikes but "a bicycle is a vehicle and therefore traffic," he said.

A recent change in the Highway Traffic Act forces bicyclists to identify themselves when asked by a police officer, he said. Prior to this changing, if a bicyclist was stopped but refused to give his or her name, the officer could not hand out a ticket.

The Halton Regional Police Safety Officer, Ken Hana, will be helping out with the rodeo by checking bicycles. The Rodeo starts at 9 a.m. this morning and continues throughout the day.

Ontario Hockey League

Summer congress held in Toronto

The eleventh annual Ontario Hockey League Summer Congress meetings will once again be held in Toronto, Ontario, commencing Thursday, May 24 through Saturday, May 26, 1990.

The three days will be highlighted by the annual OHL/Molson Awards Luncheon and the Priority Selection of eligible midget hockey players and also by the inter-league expansion draft which will stock the new Detroit Ambassadors franchise with 12 players. The agenda will also include various meetings for the League's Board of Governors, Board of Management (general managers and coaches), public relations personnel, trainers and the OHL Trade Show featuring suppliers of products to the league.

The Ambassadors franchise will be stocked with 12 players in the expansion draft. The three teams who did not make the playoffs this season - Dukes of Hamilton, Ste. Marie Greyhounds and Windsor Spitfires - are exempt from losing any players in the draft. The 12 remaining teams are to reduce their rosters of protected players to 15 skaters and two goaltenders for the draft with Detroit permitted to select a maximum of one player from each team.

1990 OHL PRIORITY SELECTION
The 1990 Priority Selection of eligible midget-aged hockey players will be held for the tenth consecutive year at the North York Centennial Arena, 580 Finch Avenue West in Willowdale on Saturday, May 26 at 10:30 a.m. The arena is located just west of Bathurst Street on the north side of Finch and the public is most welcome to attend the Selections.

The Detroit Ambassadors have the first selection followed by the Dukes of Hamilton, Windsor Spitfires and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds. The Ambassadors are the OHL's newest team after being granted an expansion franchise on December 11, 1989, and as a result of the terms of expansion, Detroit receives the first pick overall and the first selection in each subsequent round. In addition, Detroit receives the last selection in rounds four to seven for a total of 10 selections, in the first seven rounds.

The OHL Priority Selection system gives the teams who fail to make the playoffs the right to select ahead of teams making the playoffs regardless of the number of points in the final standings. The playoff teams then select in reverse order of finish of their final regular season standing.

This season there were two ties for positions in the Priority Selection order with the ties broken by using the head-to-head, won-lost records of the tied teams. Windsor Spitfires received the third selection position over Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds by virtue of the Soo winning the season series over Windsor, 6-3-1.

The London Knights took the 15th selection spot as a result of the Oshawa Generals sweeping their season series 2-0. Both teams finished with 88 points, but the Generals took first place overall due to the tie-breaking method.
