

Bingos buy tents

The Acton Minor Softball Association held two extra bingos this year with the money raised going to buy five tents for the First Acton Beavers. Several of the Beavers recently tried out one of the tents in the park outside Robert Little Public School in Acton. In the tent kneeling are Paul Schiller (far left), Ryan

Turpin, Brent Sinclair, Joel Savard and Vincent Scoutiere. Heather Savard (Reindeer) (back) was on hand to accept the tents from association representatives Dave Nakeff and Cornelia Turpin. (Herald photo)

Public will sample handicapped life at Zellers Friday

There's nothing simple about completing a shopping list for a person with a hearing, vision or mobility impairment, says an elderly services co-ordinator.

fect the participants enough so they will try to make more livable environments for seniors.

The Office for Senior Citizens' Affairs and Halton Region's Elderly Services Advisory Committee are sponsoring senior simulation exercises at Main Street Zeller on Friday at 10:00 a.m.

Once they know how it feels to be physically restricted they just may put that extra chair in the store, or make signs in larger print or facing someone directly when speaking, Kagmarski said. Kagmarski welcomes the public to view the simulations exercises.

Retailers, local politicians and media members will be participating in the volunteer workshop Through Others' Eyes, to demonstrate the difficulty in completing everyday tasks while suffering from physical impairments.

Georgetown Mayor, Russ Miller, Halton North MPP, Walter Elliot and several local councillors are expected to participate in the awareness exercises.

Joan Kagmarski, Elderly Services Co-ordinator, said participants will be outfitted with goggles, ear plugs and heavy latex gloves and a shopping list.

The purpose of the exercise is not only force participants to appreciate the everyday struggles of life for seniors, Kagmarski said. She hopes the experience will af-

Alliance Church a tropical island

Throughout the summer, Georgetown Alliance Church will be turned into a "tropical island," creating an atmosphere of fun and excitement. This year's camp activities will include lively songs, Bible stories and activities, skits, crafts, tropical treats, games and recreation. The theme of this year's camp is "Island In The Son ... Living in the warmth of God's love."

Island In The Son takes place Sunday mornings from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., July 1 to September 9. Children ages 4 through 12 are encouraged to sign-up early for this dynamic summer program.

For more information or a registration form, please contact the church office at 873-0249.

Georgetown Alliance Church is located on Main St. South, south of Maple Avenue and just south of Cedarvale Park.

Asthma day camp for kids

The Lung Association of Halton Region is once again offering a Day Camp for children with asthma and their siblings. In Georgetown the camp will be held from July 3 to July 13 at Holy Cross School. Swimming lessons will be at the Dick Licata Pool. Camp activities also include crafts, sports, field trips and breathing exercises. There are still a few openings. For further information or to register please call 632-8499.
