

Home Post Scripts

By Glenda Hughes

Being a fanatic about the housing industry, it is very unusual that I don't first reach for the "Homes" section of a newspaper before I even read the headlines. The popular magazines that we subscribe to monthly have the corners all dog-eared and coffee-stained before the rest of the family can get their hands on them. So, it's like a disease - I read almost anything that has to do with real estate, decorating and mortgaging. At present, I prefer the decorating area, for it is far more uplifting than the rest!

I caught an article a couple of weeks ago that gave a report on colours for the '90's. It was with some distain that I took note of the change, for unfortunately, the newer colours are not my cup of tea. Of course, as with any fashion trend, one can usually work with the trendy colours, to speak of, ones own style, but if you are a pastel fan, it is going to be a lot more difficult to work in those lovely, restful, light colours!

It seems that the newest trend is towards the murky greens, mustard, orange and taupe. This is all following the environmental bandwagon that most people are on. Boy, am I going to have a hard time! I just got rid of an old olive green fridge and stove a year ago! Naturally, the designers have new buzz words for these colours, but when it comes down to it, they are basically the colours that I have mentioned, just a little different hue. Most of us have just freshened up our homes with the '80's tones - so new we find out that we are going to be "dated" in the not too distant future.

Well, change is what makes the world go round, so I guess we will follow along like little sheep when we find it hard to find our now favorite colours in the decorating centres, soon.

It might be pleasing however, to note, for all those budget minded hubbys out there, that even the clothes for Fall are in these new tones, and if your wife does not like the colours, you can be assured that the spending will be a little more limited this Fall.

So, if you are starting to think about decorating your home this Fall, it would do you well, to take a look at the decorating magazines for the newest trends. If you are starting from scratch, you might as well keep up to date as best you can, and keep your home at the top end of the colour scales. If you dislike the look, you can always go neutral - even though it is pretty boring - it seems to go through all decorating trends, without too many lips curling.

Volunteer recognition ballots at library

As part of International Literacy Year 1990, Canada's Literacy Volunteer Awards program has been designed to identify and honour volunteers and organizations throughout the community who have made a significant contribution to the field of literacy in Canada.

Information and Nomination Forms are available from your local public library - a key participant in the administration of this program.

Up to 50 Certificates of Appreciation per Electoral District will be presented by the local M.P. to the selected recipients at award ceremonies to be held this fall. To be included in the selection process Nomination Forms must be returned to the library prior to September 30, 1990.

This program is sponsored by the Government of Canada, the Association pour l'avancement des sciences et des techniques de la documentation and the Canadian Library Association with two of its divisions - the Canadian Association of Public Libraries and the Canadian Libraries Trustees Association.
