Open Door programs now in full swing

Now that the high school is once again in full swing, so too are the Open Door Teen Drop-in at St. George's and the Young Parents Program at St. Andrew's.

The Drop-in, now in its sixth year, operates three days a week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with Thursdays being open to all teens wishing to play ping-pong, listen to their favorite tapes, do homework or just rap with friends.

This year the Wednesday and Friday sessions will offer a closed group of teens the opportunity to discuss common interests, concerns and problems and to enjoy outings and other activities. The kick-off for this new venture is October 3, with a great supper included, for those who have pre-registered by September 28.

The Young Parents Program, the Open Door's other group was very active throughout the summer with its young mothers and their children enjoying each other's company and support.

Its format, also, will change a little this year. On Mondays, from 4:30 to 7:30, the members can just drop into St. Andrew's to visit with their friends while their little ones enjoy a playtime.

Tuesdays, however, from 4:30 to 6:30, will be more structured, with a monthly theme forming the basis of discussions and activities. For instance, the October topic is Family Law with the invited guest speakers being a police officer, a family law specialist and a volunteer from victim services. By focussing on one theme for a whole month, the members will become very knowledgeable in all its aspects.

Both the Open Door Drop-in at St. George's and the Young Parents Program at St. Andrew's are most capably led by Vanessa Bell-Smith, the Executive Director, and two assistants. Behind the scenes is a volunteer Board of Directors composed of 14 members from a varied cross section of professions within the community. Together they all make a winning combination.
