

Come home to the Herald

The Halton Hills Herald prides itself as being the home newspaper of Halton Hills, having been established in 1866.

Being the home newspaper of Halton Hills also means being a part of the community at large as well as contributing to the community and its many facets.

Last week, students from Park School (pictured at right) toured the Herald facilities on Guelph Street and got a first-hand look at how a newspaper is actually put together for publication. Herald Managing Editor, Colin Gibson, showed the youngsters from Park School how the physical layout of the paper is done.

At left, Herald Publisher, Bob Malcolmson and Jeanine Valois of the Herald's advertising department, visited Ecole Sacre Couer and pointed out the different sections of the newspaper to the students.

Schools wishing to tour the Herald or who would like a visit from Herald staff members, are advised to contact either Publisher Bob Malcolmson or Managing Editor Colin Gibson, at 877-2201 to make arrangements.

CVCA selects Glassford

MEADOWVALE - At a Full Authority meeting held Sept. 20, The Credit Valley Conservation Authority elected Clark Glassford as their new Chairman replacing Ken Whillans who died last month in Prince Edward Island.

Mr. Glassford had been the Vice Chairman and his nomination to the Chairman's post was uncontested.

"It is always very difficult to come into office under these conditions," said Glassford, "however, we must move forward and I am honored that you have chosen me to be your Chairman."

"The meeting was very emotional, we are still feeling the pain of Ken's death," says General Manager Vicki Barron.

Mississauga Councillor Harold Kennedy was elected Vice Chairman and Mr. R. F. Russell representing the Region of Peel was elected to sit on the executive committee.
