General committee recommends name change

Halton Hills General Committee decided Monday that the First Line from Regional Road 9 to Sideroad 32 in Halton Hills be renamed Dublin Line.

The recommended name change was proposed so that local police and fire departments are no longer confused between the First Line in Halton Hills and the First Line in Milton.

In support of the name change, town Mayor Russ Miller said the name Dublin has been part of Halton Hills' history for the past 100 years. The recommendation will go before council this Monday. The town's general committee is comprised of the town councillors.

Santa Claus parade

Georgetown Lions Club is expected to hold its Annual Santa Claus Parade Nov. 24. The town's general committee recommended Monday that the service club be permitted to run the parade from the Moore Park Plaza starting at 1 p.m. The parade will then proceed south along Main Street to Maple Avenue; to Guelph Street, to Mountainview Road; to Campbell Gate and through the Georgetown Market Place. The recommendation will go before council this Monday for final approval.

User fees proposed

Town councillors will consider a staff recommendation calling for the elimination of town special pick-up days for large waste items such as refrigerators during the upcoming budget deliberations. The Town's Manager of Operations, Ted Drelow, presented councillors with a report Monday during a general committee meeting stating that the service will have to be eliminated next year if the projected 1991 35.5 per cent urban tax rate increase is to be reduced.

Town staff is proposing that the special pick-up service only be provided next year to those willing to pay a user fee of between $25 and $50 per item requested to be collected. The mayor warned the user fee shouldn't be too high so that people are encouraged to dump large waste items in the rural area.

Parking restrictions

In response to concerns expressed by Kingham Road residents in Acton over available on-street parking, town general committee recommended Monday that a maximum 12-hour parking at anytime limit on the south side of Kingham Road between Greenmore Crescent and 300 metres east of this location be imposed. As well, the committee also recommended that people no longer be permitted to park their cars for more than three hours between midnight and 7 a.m.

Seniors bazaar

The Golden Circle Seniors Club will be holding its Christmas bazaar and sale, featuring a white elephant sale, from noon until 3 p.m. at St. Andrews Church Hall on Mountainview Road South, Georgetown. Lunch will be served and residents are urged to attend.

from April 1 to November 30 along the perimeter of Greenmore Crescent.

During Monday night's meeting, Halton Hills Mayor Russ Miller suggested the town may eventually have to consider issuing overnight parking permits for area residents who own more than two cars. The recommendation will go before town council this Monday for final approval.

Application to build

Town councillors were notified Monday that an application has been made to the town's planning staff to build a farm implement dealership, a service station and a donut shop on a five acre piece of property at the 10th Line and Regional Road 23 in Halton Hills. Before construction could go ahead council would have to amend its official plan and the appropriate zoning bylaw.

Water allocation

Town General Committee recommended Monday that the development company Southfield Holdings receive water allocation for a 10 unit apartment building to be located at 107 Mountainview Road in Georgetown. If the water allocation is given final approval this Monday by town council it would last until Aug. 13, 1991, giving the developer enough time to obtain the required building permit.

Public meeting recommended

A public meeting concerning a development proposal for a four unit street townhouse complex on Church Street in Acton was recommended by the town general committee Monday. For construction to go ahead the appropriate zoning bylaw would have to be amended from Residential third density to a higher density zoning. The recommendation will go before town council this Monday for final approval. No date for the public meeting was given.

"Granny flats" recommended

Halton Hills General Committee recommended Monday that the possibility of the town permitting "granny flats" as a pilot project be considered as part of the town's review of its housing intensification study. Currently granny flats are not permitted in the town. Town planner Bruce Maclean told committee members this is a valid type of housing to consider to service special interest groups. The recommendation will go before council this Monday for final approval.

Agendas available

Local groups who register with the town in writing can have a general committee and council agenda set aside specifically for them, councillors decided Monday. But the service will be revoked from those groups who failed to pick-up their agendas two to four weeks in a row.

Issue clarified

In response to a letter from the local environmental group, Incineration Counteracts the Environment, (I.C.E.), town Mayor Russ Miller said Monday the town could not demand that Halton no longer be recognized as a willing host for an Energy from Waste (EFW) plant by the Greater Toronto Area. He argued the town could not make such a request because the question of EFW plants is a Regional matter. He did say, however, that Halton Regional Chairman Peter Pomeroy has made such a request.
