Seniors Club bazaar

Centennial Manor receives funds

The re-development of the Halton Centennial Manor, a home for the aged, is expected to go ahead next summer now that the province has provided the necessary $3.5 million in funds, said the manor's Administrator Margaret Strecker.

The manor is located in Milton, but is home to people over 65 from throughout the region. At the end of 1989, 16 per cent of the manor's occupants were from Halton Hills, said Ms. Strecker. The average age of the residents is about 85, she said.

The re-development project has cost a total of $20 million, split evenly between the province and Halton Region. Halton Region put up its share some time ago, said Ms. Strecker. The province delivered the first $6.5 million of its share last year.

There are currently 342 beds in two houses that make up the manor. But the re-development plan calls for a new building to replace one of the existing houses. It will have a 200-bed capacity, said Ms. Strecker. There are no definite plans for the other building, but Ms. Strecker suggested it may be converted into a senior's apartment building.

The manor is being downsized in size to provide occupants with a more home-like atmosphere, she explained.

None of the people living in the current manor will be forced to move. The desired number of 200 will be achieved through attrition and the building of a new seniors home in Burlington, said Ms. Strecker. When this building is completed, it will accommodate 80 to 100 people. Ms. Strecker couldn't say when the Burlington home would be completed.

Burlington was chosen for a new manor because 25 per cent of those living in Halton Centennial Manor are from this area, said Ms. Strecker.

Explaining the re-development project was part of the province and Region's plan to develop long-term care services in Halton, local MPP Noel Duignan said, people in the riding have been waiting a long time for the manor to be improved.
