

Business New-fangled fastener

A Cinderella story, destined for the front pages of international dailies, became public as small-town inventor Tom Phelan unveiled his original Never-Knot self-fastening system. Phelan skillfully demonstrated the remarkable wire unit's ability to instantly fasten and release numerous types of rope and nylon webbing, with only the use of one hand. Already being referred to by one major U.S. manufacturer as "hardware with sizzle", the Never-Knot is guaranteed to spark widespread excitement.

Manufactured by Multi-Tie Inc. Ontario, Canada, it's single piece - no moving parts construction provide the Never-Knot with unmatched simplicity. It is, however, the unit's ability to effectively double as a snap, hook, hanger, cleat, tie-down, latch or closure that stands it apart from thousands of pieces of fastening hardware already in existence.

Experiencing interest from such industries as general hardware, marine, pet and recreation, agriculture and automotive, the launch line of Never-Knots addresses only the tip of the iceberg as to where we will undoubtedly see this product in the future.

The product line includes three general household and pet sizes, a utility model and a super-safe marine/boat cleat. Units are expected to retail from $5.95 to $19.95. More than a single fastener, the Never-Knot is a fastening technology - one that will be applied in endless applications before the product line is exhausted.

The Never-Knot is unique in shape and requires only a small degree of consumer education. A simple five to 10-second demonstration is all it takes to allow immediate use and understanding by anyone from three to 103.

The Never-Knot can be fastened-to in numerous ways with the most common and recommended methods being the fixed loop (end of line) and the double mid-line loop to adjust rope length and tension. Both methods take mere seconds to apply and hold securely. The rope is guaranteed to never bind, despite the tension, allowing for a quick and easy one-handed release, every time.

It's world-wide, patent-pending coil design ensures the Never-Knot cannot be mounted or fastened-to incorrectly. It is identical upside down or right side up and only accepts the rope over the open coil.

Once secured, you can be confident the Never-Knot performance will be matched only by it's highly polished chrome plated finish. Manufactured from North American's finest hard surface, low carbon steel to demanding specifications, the Never-Knot confidently carries a full, "no exceptions" Lifetime Guarantee. (Tensile, load and fatigue test results available upon request).

This revolutionary Never-Knot self-fastening system, excepted in stores early in the new year, could change the quality of your life. The next time you fight with a seized snap, or resort to using a jackknife on a bound knot, think Never-Knot. It will hang your pants, skates, hammock, tie your cat, dog, horse or boat... actually the use of the Never-Knot is limited only by your imagination.
