P.O.W.E.R. beach party

Local environment group P.O.W.E.R. (Protect Our Water Environmental Resources) held a 'beach party' Saturday just outside the property recognized as the Acton quarry on Third Line and Sideroad 22. The environmental group held a mock christening of the lake they hope to see at the quarry site. The hoped-for lake was christened 'Dolly Varden' lake and the name was selected by Town of Halton Hills Mayor Russ Miller and Jim Stark. According to Mr. Miller, there was once a small community on what is now the Acton quarry site, with the name Dolly Varden, and his family were residents. Pictured above, are members and their children of P.O.W.E.R. who, despite the chilly weather, turned out in force to protest that the quarry should be made a reservoir instead of a proposed dump site. Front row, left to right, beach bunny Ann Locke, Matthew Locke, Katie Locke, Joshua Locke, Jessie Locke and scuba diver, Mark Hewitt. In the water craft, left to right, Sullivan Landry, Zachery Landry, Lennon Landry, and yet another beach bunny, Diane Van de Valk, and Emilie McGregor. Reg Delisle, pictured at rear, did yeomanlike service, holding up the P.O.W.E.R. sign in the gusting winds. (Herald photo by Colin Gibson)
