Toy Lending Library to benefit from GLT

By HELEN VANDERMEY
Herald Special

For Georgetown Little Theatre's next production, 84 Charing Cross Road, by Helene Hanff, directed by Neville Worsnop, they are giving a benefit performance in aid of the Halton Hills Toy Lending Library, on Thursday, February 21st, with the curtain rising at 8 p.m.

The Toy Lending Library is a wonderful community service organization in town which offers local parents a great savings on toy purchases for their youngsters in these tough economic times. Children borrow their favourite toys for a couple of weeks, thus saving the parents the expense of purchasing the toys which their children may tire of after short periods of time.

The Halton Hills Toy Lending Library, located at Ecole Sacre Coeur, has over 500 good quality, durable, fun and even educational toys for children aged birth to 7, including puzzles, games, ride-on toys, train sets, baby toys, farms, airports and everything in between that appeals to children these days, but what you won't find here are violent toys or toys with war themes. The Library usually spends between $1,500 to $2,000 annually on new toys for local kids, and it's nice for parents to be able to give their children all the benefits of having toys that they know will be well played with and not sitting idle on their shelves at home collecting dust.

So why not treat yourselves to a night out at the theatre enjoying this sometimes humorous drama, and know that at the same time, all of your ticket price is going to help out local youngsters. The Lending Library is also serving free refreshments in the Gallery after the performance where you will have an opportunity to meet the cast.

Ticket prices are $10 each with all proceeds to the Halton Hills Toys Lending Library. The play is being performed at the John Elliott Theatre on Church Street, and tickets can be delivered to your house at any time, C.O.D. by cash or cheque. If you would be interested in purchasing a ticket, or would like more information about joining the library, please call Helen Vandermeij, Chairperson at 877-7636.

PLUG IN HALTON HILLS HYDRO

ARE YOU OVER EXTENDING YOUR ELECTRICAL SYSTEM?

So many things to plug in, so few outlets to plug them in to. It's a common problem these days, especially in older houses. Many people use extension cords or multiple plugs to handle everything. And soon every outlet begins to look like an octopus. That's not a safe way to deal with electricity. Overloading outlets is dangerous. Every year fires are started by misuse of electricity. If you don't have enough outlets, have a qualified electrician install more. It's also a good idea to have your service upgraded so your system can take the electrical demands of today's labour saving appliances.

ENERGY HINTS

Hot Water Use

Showers Not Baths! Take quick showers instead of baths. And a good quality energy efficient shower head can reduce the amount of hot water used for a shower by 50 to 75%.

Fix Leaking Taps -

A leaking tap at one drop per second wastes 800 litres (175 gallons) of hot water per month. In most cases worn tap washers are the culprit.

Insulate hot Water Pipes
Insulate the first 1 to 2 metres (3 to 6 feet) of hot water pipe from your water heater. Also consider insulating your hot water tank.
