Tires stolen

Halton Regional Police say unknown suspects stole two tires from an Acton wrecking yard overnight on Feb. 4. Police say the culprits jacked up a 1982 Honda while it was parked in the wrecking yard and removed the front tires. They also attempted to remove the rear tires but left before doing so, police say. Owner of the yard requested extra patrols around the establishment since he's experienced several other thefts.

Tools lifted

Police report a garage in Limehouse was illegally entered and $160 worth of tools stolen between Jan. 27 and Feb. 2. Police say unknown suspects prised open a locked door to the shed and once inside, removed a tool roll. Police are investigating.

Car vandalized

About $350 worth of damage was done to a 1987 Mazda parked at the Outdoor Education Centre in Silvercreek between 9:00 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. on Feb. 4, police report. Unknown culprits cracked the windshield, the driver's mirror and put two dents in the driver's door, police say. The incident was reported for insurance purposes.

Residence damage

Police say unknown suspects caused $100 worth of damage to a resident in Acton between Jan. 30 and Feb. 5 when they tried to break into the house. Police say the suspects entered a garage in the house through an unlocked door and proceeded to a bedroom window where they removed a screen and cut the outer pane of glass. No entry appeared to have been gained into the residence and no property was stolen.

Norval News

Wedding bells

By KAY WILSON

Prophet Elias Church, Mississauga, was the scene of a pretty winter wedding, when Tracy Whitworth, R.R.1 Norval, and George Epitropou of Georgetown, were united in marriage on Jan. 19.

Tracy is the daughter of Barry and Karen Whitworth of R.R.1 Norval, and George is the son of Mike and Faye Epitropou of Georgetown.

The church pews were decorated with Victorian bows trimmed with heather.

Father Sergio, the groom's cousin, performed the ceremony. Haydn Evans was the organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a Victorian style white lace gown with floor-length train and carried a bouquet of burgandy roses.

Maid of honor was Andrea Stinson, a friend of the bride. Liza Epitropou, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid.

Heather and Chrissy Kerton, friends of the bride, were flower girls. The bride's attendants wore Victorian style lace and satin gowns in dusty rose. The flower girls wore Victorian style gowns in off-white lace and satin with wreath headpieces.

The best man was the groom's brother, John Epitropou, and the usher, John Kaz, was a friend. Each wore black tuxedos.

Special guests at the wedding, were the bride's Grandma Vera Roberts of Georgetown, and Grampa and Grandma George and Ruth Whitworth of Meaford.

Very special guest from Greece was the groom's aunt, Anastasia Kiovlasa.

A reception was held at the La Dome in Oakville, for 175 guests.

The bride's mother received for her daughter, wearing a gown of black velvet with red roses. Assisting was the groom's mother who wore a silk crepe de chene gown, trimmed with black sequins.

Both fathers of the bridal couple wore black tuxedos with tails.

Following the reception the couple left for a two week wedding trip to St. Marten. On their return they will make their home in Georgetown.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was feted at several showers.

Donna Mansfield of Collingwood, gave a dinner party, followed by a shower with many beautiful gifts.

Donna Sproule, Georgetown, hosted a shower at her home. Grandma Vera Roberts entertained family members in honor of Tracy's marriage.

Faye and Liza Epitropou, the grooms mother and sister, hosted a shower for the groom's family and friends. All were miscellaneous showers.

Regional council approves Halton AIDS centre

Halton Region will soon get a storefront Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, (AIDS), Information and Counselling Centre.

Regional Council approved Wednesday that Halton's Health Department enter into negotiations with the group Hamilton AIDS Network for Dialogue and Support, (HANDS), to establish the storefront operation in Burlington.

Although located in Halton south it will service residents throughout the Region, said Halton Commissioner and Medical Officer of Health, Dr. Robert Nosal, following the council meeting.

Council made its decision after Dr. Nosal told councillors the number of individuals with Human Immunodeficiency Virus, (HIV), including AIDS continues to rise in Halton. There was a 27 percent increase in reported HIV cases over the past year, said Dr. Nosal. Males between the ages of 30 and 50 comprise the majority of HIV carriers, said Dr. Nosal, but 12 percent of the cases involve individuals under the age of 25, he said.

The storefront location will allow young people or other interested adults to informally obtain education materials or discuss any particular issue regarding AIDS, said Dr. Nosal.

The Medical Officer told council HANDS' Hamilton office has been serving that city and Halton.

Education is the main way to prevent the spread of AIDS, said Dr. Nosal. That's why he recommended council support establishing the storefront operation as a pilot project. It will be open three afternoons a week and staffed by the HANDS group and members of the Regional Health Department AIDS project staff, explained Dr. Nosal.

Halton's Health Department already operates the Healthy Relationships Campaign to educate Halton's young people about ways of preventing the spread of AIDS. Dr. Nosal anticipates the HANDS operation will complement the existing program.

Break and enter charges

Two Georgetown men and one Brampton man were arrested Jan. 30 by Halton Regional Police in connection with several break and enters in Georgetown.

Members of Halton's task force were investigating the break-ins which resulted in the arrest of 21-year-old Joseph Johnston of Georgetown, 23-year-old Gregory Kuipers of Georgetown and 21-year-old Michael Hayes of Bramalea.

The three accused have been charged with a total of 14 criminal offences which include break, enter and theft, possession of stolen property, possession of a prohibited weapon (a switchblade knife) and possession of narcotics.

During the investigation, which involved break-ins at Georgetown District High School Jan. 11 and Jan. 15, the Maple Auto Service Centre Jan. 20 and Jug City Jan. 23, police executed two search warrants in Georgetown and were able to recover approximately $3,000 in stolen property. Property included cigarettes, a guitar, a VCR, television and some flags.

All charged will appear in Milton Court on Feb. 18, 1991.
