Women On Wheels, a ladies car racing organization, is looking for females in the Halton Hills area who might want to add some more fun and excitement to their lives.

The lady drivers, who range in age from 16 to over 50, compete every Friday night at Varney Speedway near Durham in six cylinder cars - Aspens, Volare, Nova, etc. The competitor's occupations are varied, being office workers, high school students, store managers or bus drivers. At least two are grandmothers.

The ladies rely on their husbands, relatives, friends and themselves to maintain and service their cars. It's a common sight to see one of the women jacking up their car while some guy stands by holding a tire. All the members help one another, offering advice, tools, parts, etc., when needed.

Anybody with an interest in racing can be a candidate. One of the 1990 rookie drivers had never seen a race, but joined up after hearing about it from some friends - she wound up in fourth place in overall points.

Varney Speedway is located on Highway 6, just south of Durham and boasts drivers from Kitchener, Guelph, Alliston, Brampton, Bolton, Shelburne and Orangeville, as well as many other towns.

Anyone interested in becoming a W.O.W. class driver can call Helen Young at (519) 923-2544 or track promoter Tom Donnelly at (519) 746-5745 for more information.

Snowmobiling and booze don't mix

When out snowmobiling, people face a few natural risks; the cold, thin ice and hazards such as snow drifts and trees on the path. But, the biggest hazard is one the snowmobiler can control, say the Royal Life Saving Society of Canada (RLSSC). It's drinking while snowmobiling.

Alcohol affects a person's balance and judgement. A moment of dizziness or a misstep may not cause harm on the ground or in a restaurant, but it can spell disaster on a snowmobile.

If that's not enough warning, you should know that impaired snowmobiling is just as serious as impaired driving. The penalty on a first offence is a minimum fine of $300. For a second offence there is imprisonment for not less than 14 days.

For the third and each subsequent offence, there is imprisonment for not less than 90 days. In addition, you may be prohibited from operating a snowmobile for a minimum of three months and could also lose your driver's license.

Be water smart ... make every trip a round trip ... think before you drink!
