

MVP 2-0 in Atom playoffs

Varian, Tim Horton's and MVP Sports all came out on top in their second round of Atom house league playoffs at Memorial Arena on Saturday.

Game one was between Varian and a fired up Chateau team. Varian struck first on a goal by Sam Southworth (assist Richard Cunningham and Kevin Moore). Chateau came right back with a solo effort from Sam Butt.

Period two was a tough defensive battle, with Varian going ahead 3-1 on goals by Cunningham (assist Southworth), and Jesse Ward (assist Mark Harlow). Chateau stormed back in the third however, and scored three times in quick succession - goals by Butt (assist Chris Manda), Sean Hardcastle (assist Craig Anderson), and Jagdesh Thind (assist Shane Copeland).

This left the score at 4-3, but only for 11 seconds, as Varian's Cunningham and Southworth combined again for the tying goal. It looked as though the game would end in a tie, but in the dying minutes Varian got two more goals, Southworth (2 goals, 3 assists) from Harlow and Ward, and Ward from Mike Kitchen and Cunningham, to end it 6-4 in favour of Varian.

In the next game, the two regular season leaders, Tim Horton's and Dave's Service Centre clashed. Period one saw Horton's take the lead on goals by Andrew Boyce (assist Bryan Foster) and Josh Malinosky (assist Robin Deeley, Ian Cartwright).

Despite hard work and lots of chances, Dave's couldn't reply until halfway through the second, when Brendan Alexa (assist Shawn Dunlop), popped his own rebound past a sprawling goalie, Dylan Lee.

Game three was another tough struggle between two evenly matched teams. The first period saw MVP Sports surprise A and S Engraving with three unanswered goals, from Ryan Gledhill (assist Chris Sperduti), Paul Farmer, and Isaac Ferguson (assist Gledhill).

A and S came out for the second fired-up, and goals by Dirk McKee (assist Jason Thomson) and Geoff Quinn (assist McKee, Chris Baker) cut the lead to one. The third period had lots of action at both ends of the ice, but two more fine goaltending displays by A and S's Ryan Mansfield and MVP's Tom Allen stopped the offences cold. The game ended 3-2 for MVP in what could be considered a minor upset.

Halton Brick Midgets zero in on Oakville

Canada Brick Midget Halton Hurricanes need one more win against Oakville to advance to the finals of the Central AAA playoffs. They now lead Oakville two games to one in a six point series.

In the first game at home on March 1, Ryan Peddie backstopped Canada Brick to a 6-4 win. Sean Guistini converted a Gio Piazza rebound to get Hurricanes started. Damien Dublan fed a long lead pass to Pat Hennenberry and Wade Burrows buried Hennenberry's rebound to make it 2-0.

In the second period, Oakville scored early on a power play. Canada brick then went to work and scored three in a row. Mike McPhail's slapshot found the mark, assisted by Ken Kosziwka. Vice versa Kosziwka tipped in a McPhail shot.

Trevor Elinesky and Todd Mulley combined on a give and go with Elinesky scoring to make it 5-2. Oakville again scored on a power play to end the period.

Jake Mashinter stripped the puck from a defender and deposited it on the top shelf to start the third period.

In the second game at Oakville on March 6, Peddie earned a 7-3 win in net. On a power play, Mulley scored on the rebound of a Rob Laing point shot to open the scoring.

The third period featured two more Hurricane goals. Shawn Bourgeois fed Guistini in the slot from behind the net. Guistini's quick shot found the mark. Bourgeois also set up the final goal scored by Rosquoka to make it 7-3.

Canada Brick iced a depleted lineup as they hosted Oakville in the third game. With four regulars out of action Oakville skated to a 5-1 win.

Halton travels to Oakville on Sunday and returns to Milton's Thompson Rd. Arena on Monday if required. The winner will advance to the finals against either Hamilton or Burlington. In the meantime, Canada Brick will take part in the Richmond Hill Midget AAA Tournament during the March Break.
