

Carruthers residents clean-up

By LORI BALL
Herald Special

Last Saturday morning, the children's craft group of Carruthers Road Co-Op, run by Ellen Napier, also a member of the Co-Op, worked together to plant Spruce tree seeds and various flower seeds around their home.

It was a fun-filled morning for all, sowing the seeds and planning where to plant them followed by a nature walk to Moore Park.

Co-Op housing is affordable housing where each resident is an active member in the running and maintenance of their building. It is a small community of members, working together for a safe and happy home, who can also take pride in where they live.

Co-Op's are often referred to as "Low Income Housing" which is totally incorrect.

Co-Ops are affordable housing which means the rents are scaled to what the going rents are for the area.

The low-income misconception is brought on by the fact that a portion of the units are subsidized and the rent is geared to the units members incomes. The other portion of the units feature market-based rents.

The small community atmosphere in the Co-Op, although surrounded by the larger community of Georgetown itself, is one of people working together for the betterment of their little community and the children of the Co-Op are no exception.

While growing and nurturing their seeds to plant around the Co-Op to help the environment and beautify their home is a big job for ones so young, it is refreshing to see such an awareness and caring in the youngsters.

The commitment to the environment doesn't stop here. This Saturday one and all will be out around their Co-Op, cleaning up all the trash and twigs littering the property. Once it is all cleaned up and hauled away the Co-Op members will then partake of a Co-Op members B.B.Q. and spring celebration.

We salute the kids and members of the Carruthers Road Co-Op in their environmental stand and wish them luck with their trees and flowers for the future environmental health of Carruthers Road Co-Op.

Open Door barbeque

By ANN SCHEEPERS-NEVINS
Executive Director - Open Door

The students of the Open Door Youth Centre would like to show their appreciation to the community for their ongoing support. As one student put it "I like this place and I want to give something back." So in keeping with this theme, the students have organized a hotdog barbecue, Friday, May 3 at St. George's Parking Lot beside the high school. The price for a hotdog and pop is $1.50. Thank you to Knechtels, IGA, Miracle Mart, M and M Meals and the Butcher Shop for their generous donations. So come see our students serve you a quick lunch Friday, May 3, 10 - 2 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

A teen dance is being planned for Friday, May 10, 1991 at the Lion's Club Hall, 42 Mill St. Georgetown. Come, be entertained, and support your local youth centre.
