Guilty plea to environment charge

The unauthorized removal of an island in the Credit River near Terra Cotta last November has led to a Terra Cotta man's guilty plea earlier this month in a Brampton court.

Mr. Albert Eutenier of Terra Cotta, pleaded guilty to "unlawfully" causing shore lands to be dredged without a work permit contrary to the Public Lands Act administered by the Ministry of Natural Resources. In addition, the dredging was undertaken in contravention of the Credit Valley Conservation Authority's Fill, Construction and Alteration to a Waterways Regulation.

"The Credit River between Norval and Inglewood is considered to be a valuable cold water fish production zone," says Robert Peace, Community Relations Spokesperson for the Credit Valley Conservation Authority.

Last fall the first Atlantic salmon were expected to use this section of the Credit to reproduce and for this reason the Ministry of Natural Resources does not authorize or permit any inwater construction work at that time.

"Along with the Ministry of Natural Resources, the Conservation Authority considers the Credit River to be a top priority fisheries watershed. There are so many destructive implications to fish habitat not to mention the serious flood and erosion potential of this kind of action."

Health Department Open House

During Pioneer Days, June 13, 14 and 15, Halton Hills residents are invited to an Open House to learn more about the many services offered by the Regional Health Department. The office, located at 93 Main Street, will be open from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on June 14th.

Regional staff will be on hand to talk about their services and answer any questions.

Through a hands-on approach, participants at the Open House will be taking part in demonstrations to learn more about health services.

Staff have accepted a new challenge in the way in which we address health-related interests.

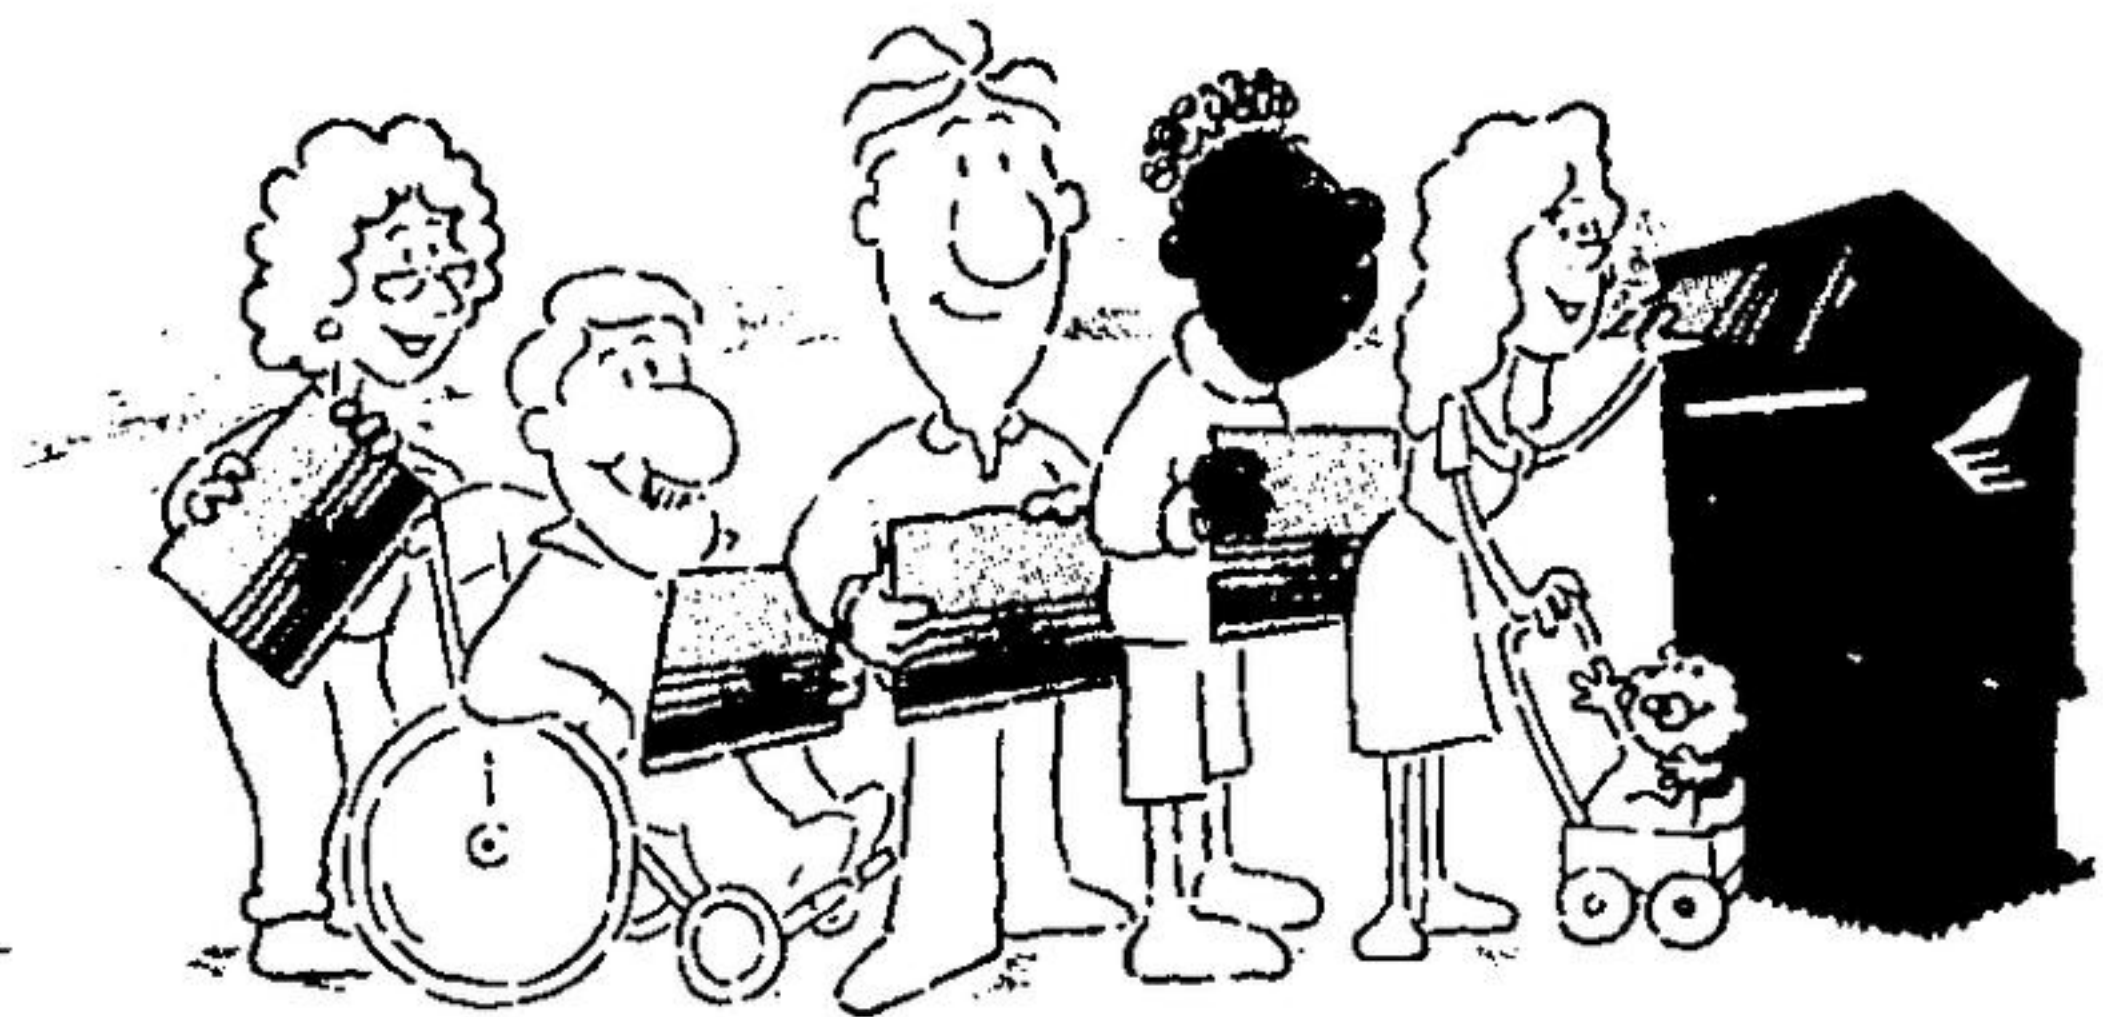

The new challenge involves taking the services to the community and working with local groups to develop community-based programs.
