

Leferink proposal gets cold shoulder from Region

Halton Region Planning and Public Works Committee recommended Wednesday, Leferink Transfer Station in Georgetown should not be permitted to increase the amount of waste it currently handles.

The recommendation will go before Regional Council this Wednesday for final consideration.

Committee made its recommendation after Barbara Halsall, President of local environmental group, Protect Our Water Environmental Resources, (POWER), argued it would be a mistake to permit the transfer station to handle more garbage.

Ms. Halsall told committee members permitting Leferink to handle more waste would discourage other communities from trying to reduce the amount of waste they generate.

Leferink currently has permission to take garbage produced in Halton Hills and Milton. The transfer station now wants permission to receive garbage from anywhere in Ontario.

The province's Ministry of Environment, (MOE), is the ultimate authority in deciding whether Leferink will be permitted to accept garbage from throughout Ontario. To assist in making its decision, the MOE requested Halton Region comment on the transfer station's application.

Ms. Halsall argued the easier it is for Ontario municipalities to ship garbage outside their boundaries, the less incentive there is for the communities to reduce their respective waste streams.

As part of the committee's recommendation, staff was directed to inform the MOE that a hearing under the province's Environmental Protection Act should be held concerning the Leferink application.

According to the staff report, "Leferink's application is deficient with regard to information on the impact of increased truck traffic that could be created if the application was approved."

The report also indicates, if Leferink's service area was expanded then Halton's waste disposal system could be "negatively impacted."
